This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE

Because this "A History of the Orvis Family in America" is the outgrowth of two pamphlets published by me in 1911 and 1913, and called by me "Outlines of the Orvis Family," I have included in these prefatory remarks the prefaces which appeared in those forerunners. The background is thus provided for such other remarks of an introductory nature as properly find place here.

Following the publication, nine years ago, of the later "Outlines," I found myself impelled as much by choice as by natural consequences to continue collecting Orvis family data and correcting the fairly large array which I already had. Many, on receiving the "Outlines," began writing to me about their immediate branches of the family, pointing out my sins or omission if not of commission, adding new names and facts and amending such unintentional misstatements as had crept in, despite my best efforts. Thus my interest was not allowed to flag, and the data continued to flow in, with the result, finally, that I believed I had a fair nucleus around which to construct what I might venture to describe as a "History," although in my preface to the 1913 "Outlines" I had expressed the hope that others than myself, and better fitted for the work, might undertake that task, prompted by my temerity.

Assisted by many, and urged on by all, I made numerous journeys to the resting places of long-departed Orvises, as well as to those places where records of their lives might be inspected, continually adding in these ways, and by correspondence, to the voluminous data then in hand. The present volume is the result. If it shall be a source of information and interest to those of Orvis lineage, and leave with them, as it does with me, a heightened respect for both the progenitors and the living members of our clan, the work will not have been in vain. Certainly, no amount of pleasure and satisfaction that others may take in its perusal can exceed the pleasure and satisfaction which have been mine in slowly piecing it together. I have endeavored to acknowledge the assistance and co-operation that have attended my efforts. I could not hope to express in fitting terms the feelings prompted by innumerable pleasurable contacts with others of the family resident in practically every State of the Union. To all of them I can but send my greetings, reiterate my thanks and commit this volume to their kindly consideration.

(Preface to September, 1911, issue)

From time to time various persons have attempted to compile a history of the Orvis family in America. Among these I may mention Edward E. Orvis, my father, who published a small pamphlet on the subject, which was subsequently reprinted by myself, with the intention of continuing the search and making a fuller record.

Edwin W. Orvis, now of 60 Broadway, New York City, published a similar booklet of his branch of the family, and he has the same desire as others of the family for "more light."

Dr. B. W. Rhamy, of Fort Wayne, Ind., who married Mary Alice Orvis, became interested in the subject and has gathered more data concerning the family than any one else of whom the writer knows.

It was said and generally accepted that three brothers emigrated to this country from England or Wales, but Dr. Rhamy says that in his investigations he has found no evidence in support of the assertion. He is of the opinion that all the Orvises are descendants of one George Orvis, who lived in Farmington, Ct., in 1658 and had lived there for some time prior to that year, for he married Elizabeth, widow of David Carpenter, in 1652, by whom he had six children. He was a man of some importance in the community and died April 27, 1664. The widow subsequently married Richard Bronson. With the children of David Carpenter or those of Richard Bronson this book is not concerned; but with the six children of George Orvis and their descendants. Copies of the church records of George and his children and grandchildren are now in the hands of Dr. Rhamy.

(Preface to September, 1913, issue)

Two years ago I printed and circulated among the Orvises known to me a pamphlet which I called "Outlines of the Orvis Family." While the present edition is more full and contains many names, letters, dates, and whole families not found in the first, it is still nothing more than "Outlines." It cannot be called a History. That must come later, when fuller and more accurate information is at hand. Rather than delay further this pamphlet is printed and distributed among the family in United States, in the hope that some Orvis or Orvises will take up the work and systematically compile and publish a "History of the Orvis Family in America" that will be worthy of its title. All letters, papers or other data that I may have will always be at the disposal of any one desiring same for this purpose.

I regret that this booklet is as faulty as I know it to be; but it is the best that I could produce under the conditions, and I shall continue writing to Orvises wherever I find them, and collecting and collating data concerning the family, for future use as above stated, whether I issue another book or not.

I want to thank all those who have helped me in this work, and they are scattered all the way from Vermont to California. I am especially grateful to John Mills Orvis, of Des Moines, Iowa; Rev. G. M. Orvis, of Dubuque, Iowa; Albert H. Orvis, of Yankton, So. Dak.; Stella V. Davis, of Oskaloosa, Iowa; Mrs. William Orvis, of Evaline, Mich.; E. R. Orvis, of Mainsburg, Pa.; George E. Orvis, of Mansfield, Pa.; Harry F. Orvis, of Camp Lake, Wis., and John Mills Orvis, of Missoula, Mont.

APPRECIATION

It would be impossible to assemble the data for a volume such as this is without the aid of many members of the family. Not only have the living members been appealed to for record of the present generation, but the recollections of many regarding relatives no longer with us have been freely consulted and been of much assistance. Moreover, others of the family besides myself have from time to time supplied much helpful information, which they had assembled with a view at some time of publishing a similar work. To all those who have thus assisted me I am most grateful. I am particularly grateful, and make this special acknowledgment, to Dr. B. W. Rhamy, of Fort Wayne, Indiana, who, following his marriage into our family, gathered together a considerable volume of Orvis data, which he freely offered for use in connection with this work.

THE ORVIS FAMILY IN ENGLAND

In 1916, while browsing around in the New York Public Library, I chanced to look in the current directory of London, England, and found this:

"Orvis, Elizabeth, widow of F. W. Orvis, Ship Chandler," and the address. This naturally startled me a bit, for F. W. are my initials, but I was not aware of being a "dead one" entirely. I wrote her at once, and after some time got this letter, which had been opened by Censor No. 3158:

1 Kings Parade, Lower Combs St., South Croydon,
25th June, 1916.

Dear Sir:

In answer to yours of 8th June, 1916, the letter in question appears to refer to me. The person to whom you addressed it is my sister-in-law, whose husband was my brother, F. W. Orvice, who is dead. The Orvice family, I believe, originated in Norfolk, anyhow, that is where I was born, in a village by the name of Besthorpe. I cannot give you any further particulars just now, as my grandfather, grandmother and father are all dead.

I lost the run of an uncle, Joseph Orvice (I think that was his Christian name), many years ago, who I believe married a Miss Brown, and in the early part of their married life lived somewhere in Suffolk, I think near Stowmarket.

If you should be the person in question, or his son, I should be pleased to hear from you.

Believe me to remain yours respectfully,

R. ORVICE.

Note the spelling of the name "Orvice" and the fact that the writer thinks the family came from Norfolk County, where he was born, in the village of Besthorpe, and also that his uncle lived in Suffolk County.

BEFORE GEORGE

In 1616, there lived in Bardwell, Suffolk Co., Eng., John Orvis and his wife, Prudence. They had at least three children, two daughters and a son. Elizabeth was baptized May 2, 1619; Hamith, the son, in April, 1621, and the other daughter, Thomazin, on August 10, 1623, according to the records found in "Miscellanae Genealogical et Heraldica," Vol. 5, page 321. It is regrettable that our knowledge of this family is so meagre, but what there is of it is authentic.

We might imagine that our George was an older brother of Hamith, the son of John and Prudence, but we have no such record. His age would permit such contention. He did emigrate; it must have been about that time or a little later. His name was ORVIS, and that was the way John and Prudence spelled their family name—not ORVICE, as was used by some other branches of the family.

New England Historical and Genealogical Register, Vol. 50, page 285, mentions John Orvis, of Lowford, in Will-Consistory Court of London, England, Sept. 12, 1619.

Henry W. Orvis, of Cleveland, Ohio, says positively that "George, William and Samuel Orvis sailed from Londonderry, Ireland, in the year 1629 for America, landing at a place 60 miles inland on the Piscataqua River in New Hampshire at or near what is now Portsmouth; or it may be possible that they landed at Salem instead of Portsmouth." (Note—There was a settlement made a short time before 1631 at the mouth of the Piscataqua River on land belonging to Capt. John Mason and under the leadership of Walter Neale. Altogether there were 60 men and 22 women, who called the settlement Strawberry Bank.)

The will of David Carpenter, first husband of Elizabeth, who afterwards married George Orvis, dated May 18, 1652 says in part:

"I give to my wife, Elizabeth, the cellar that I live in and all my household stuff * * * and I commit the care and oversight of my children and estate and buildings wholly to my master, John White, of Hartford, Conn."

GEORGE ORVIS

Married in 1652 at Farmington, Connecticut, Elizabeth, widow of David Carpenter, who had died January 22, 1650 or 1651.

George and Elizabeth had six children, three boys and three girls. His wife, Elizabeth, joined the Church and her three children by her first husband and George's children were all baptized in Farmington. (See Church Records of that town, Vol. 12, page 34). For other authentic information concerning George and his family, see Savage's Genealogical Dictionary, Vol. 4, page 317. George died April 27, 1664, the year that New York was conquered from the Dutch and the year of the great plague of London, England. His widow married Richard Brownson, Brunson, or Bronson, as various spellings are given by the different authorities.

Richard Bronson was a carpenter as well as farmer; at least he left a full set of carpenter tools at his death in 1687. He was a widower with several children when he married Elizabeth, the widow of George and David. She certainly led a strenuous life, what with the three children of David (Elizabeth Carpenter, born 1644; David Carpenter, born 1647, and Mary Carpenter, baptized August, 1650), the six children of George and those of Richard. Nine times a natural mother and foster-mother to several others.

In the History of Northfield, Mass., George was referred to as the "Emigrant," but where he came from, on what ship and at what time, we do not now know.

Several have contended that the George ORRIS, who came over on the ship "Elizabeth and Ann," is the same George—our George—whose age was given as 21 when he embarked at London, England, May 8, 1635. It is claimed that ORVIS and ORRIS in hand writing could easily be mistaken one for the other, and this certainly is true, for that same mistake was made by the Erie Railroad in this year (1920), in issuing a commutation ticket to the writer of this sketch, using the previous month's ticket from which to copy the name. Such an error would have been even more likely then than now, when education is more general. The theory would be quite plausible and convincing if it were not a fact that there is a large family of ORRISES in both this country and England. The spelling of this name is also irregular: ORIS, ORRIS, ORRISS, ORISS, ORICE, etc. There are listed in "Soldiers in King Philip's War": John, Jonathan and Experience Orris and the indications are that they came from Boston. John is listed as a "smith of Boston." In one document John is recorded as Avis and was in the same company with "Roger Orris." Roger was undoubtedly the "son of the emigrant, George," and was wounded "in ye foott," and was sent home to his mother, as this was after the death of George. In this last report the clerk or official who made it out vouched for its correctness, "All except some of the spellings." It is small wonder that he was confused.

In most of the reports wherever a member of the Boston family is mentioned some form of spelling ORRIS is used, while for the Connecticut family some form of spelling ORVIS is used. There may be one or two exceptions, similar to the one just mentioned, and the clerk made the spellings uniform—and then apologized. Moreover, the records of Boston, Mass., show that George and Elizabeth Oris were living there and raising children in 1646 and mention is made of the family as late as 1699. The fact that the names are so nearly alike has caused much discussion, but there seems no doubt that there were two families: George and Elizabeth Orvis, living in Farmington, Conn., and George and Elizabeth Oris, living in Boston, at the same time.

"This Court, having heard what had been alleged by Sergeant Hart against the Widow Orvis, her sale of her house and land at Farmington, to Samuel Gridley, doe declare that they can see not cause to alter the settlement made by the County Court of the lands of the Widow Orvis."

The above quotation would indicate that Elizabeth sold out.

In a list of original settlers and owners of Farmington, George's name appears with a letter "S" after it. This indicates that George was one of the original settlers of the town, and he probably came from Hartford, as did most of them. He was one of the original 84 proprietors and the records show that his widow came in for the new allotment or distribution of lands held by the original settlers. Farmington was first settled prior to 1639, and if George was one of the original owners and settlers he must have been there then, which was about the time Rhode Island was settled by Roger Williams (1636), and in the same year that Cromwell's Long Parliament was assembled in England (1640), the town was officially launched, but it was some time after before a charter was granted. George probably knew about the Colonies of Connecticut, New Haven, New Plymouth and Massachusetts (including New Hampshire) when they formed the New England Confederation in 1642. The first settlement in America was at Jamestown, Va., May 13, 1607, only about 32 years before we know of George. In 1609, the Hudson River was first explored and the Mayflower landed her Pilgrims in 1620. Manhattan Island was settled in 1623; Maryland in 1634. George certainly lived in a time of great happenings. We can only speculate as to how long it was after Charles I. of England was beheaded (Jan. 20, 1649), before George heard of it.

In 1645, Farmington received its charter as an individual commonwealth. Its first name was Tunxis, so called by the Indians. It was prior to 1639 that steps were first taken looking towards a charter.

Richard Bronson and John, his brother (the latter an original proprietor of Hartford), removed to Farmington in 1653. Richard joined the Church there in 1654 and died there in 1687. By his first wife he had at least two children, John and Abagail, and Savage mentions several others in his Genealogical Dictionary, Vol. 1, page 280. His second wife was Elizabeth, widow of George Orvis and David Carpenter. She died in April between the 14th and 24th, 1694.

Court Record, Pages 71-6, September, 1694; Will proven. Invt. exhibited and approved by the Court.

In January, 1639, "A committee from the three towns of Hartford, Wethersfield and Windsor was appointed to view these parts of Tunxis Sepos (The Indian name for the parts which now are Farmington and its nearby environs). In 1640, the conditions for planting Tunxis are concluded and settlement began. A few families from Hartford led the way, constructing their dwellings on the uplands and selecting or purchasing large portions of the meadows. In 1645, Tunxis received its present name of Farmington and became a taxable town "with the like liberties as the other towns upon the river for making order among themselves." Its first tax in 1645 was 10 pounds (English money). Dwelling lots were five acres each. In the year 1655, fifteen years from the date of the original settlement, the number of ratable persons in the town was 46, and the grand list of their estates was 5519 pounds Sterling. In 1672, thirty-two years after the date of the original settlement, the proprietors of the town, then 84 in number, took possession of the lands within the town limits (which had been commons) and ordered it divided among them according to their holdings as shown by the tax list. George Orvis was one of the "original proprietors," and his widow came in for his share of the divided lands.—From the Historical Address of Noah Porter, Jr., November 4, 1840, at Farmington, Conn.

FIRST GENERATION

Male Line: George[1]

Children of George Orvis and Elizabeth (——?——) (Carpenter)

SAMUEL[1]—Born May, 1653, at Farmington, Conn. Married Deborah (——?——).

Deborah joined Church May 7, 1682. He was still living April, 1709.

Julius Gay, in his "Farmington 200 Years Ago," tells us that Samuel was a shoemaker and had his place on the East side of Main Street, a little North of the residence of Gustave Cowles.

Some contend that Samuel married (1) Abagail, born 1643, daughter of Richard Bronson by his first wife (that is his step-sister), and (2) Deborah (——?——), but I am inclined to doubt this because of the conflicting testimonies of the various authorities, most of whom copied from Hinman, and I believe they are all mixed on the Bronson family. Stiles and the New England Gen. Register and Savage all say that Jonathan Winchell married Abigail Brunson, who was perhaps daughter of Richard Bronson and each records the fact that this couple had son, Jonathan. It is possible that there was more than one Abigail Brunson and also that there was more than one Samuel Orvis, but I have no evidence of this.

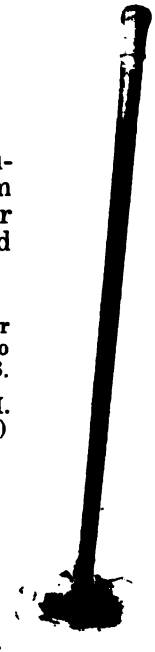
HANNAH[1]—Born April, 1655, at Farmington.

Not named in her mother's will, April 6, 1694.

ROGER[1]—Born June, 1657, at Farmington, Conn. Died January, 14, 1737. Married December 15, 1692, Miriam (Handerson), who was born in 1671, and died December 26, 1747, at Farmington, Conn.; daughter of John and Martha Handerson, of Hartford, Conn.

Miriam joined the Church January 20, 1711, and Roger in 1712. Roger had his house at "ye southerly end of ye town plat." There are two records, Church and Town. One gives Miriam's death as January 27, 1748.

He was presented with a can in 1676 by direction of King James II. of England, in recognition of his services in the Indian wars (See cut.)



ROGER'S CANE

EBENEZER[1]—Born March 18, 1659, at Farmington.

Probably died young.

MARGARET[1]—Born June, 1661, at Farmington.

Not named in her mother's will, April 6, 1694. Probably died young.

MARY[1]—Born June, 1663, at Farmington. Died November 28, 1748, in Farmington. Married February, 1687, at Farmington, Samuel Scott, who was born in 1660 and died June 30, 1745.

George and Elizabeth named their younger daughter "Mary," but we find her signing as "Marie." Probably because of her affluence after becoming an heiress under the terms of her mother's will. See will.

FIRST GENERATION—NOTES

From Church Records:—

"Sam. Orvice owned ye Covenant, joined the Church and his children are baptized."

Roger, son of George, lived in Farmington and was a soldier in King Philip's War under Capt. Newbery; was wounded at Hatfield, May, 1676. "Roger Alvis is wounded in ye foott." (Alvis is meant for Orvis.) Public Records of Colony of Connecticut—1665-1678, page 450—Trumbull, Document 84-A and on page 485 we find "Roger Orvis is now freed for pay and is to return to his place to attend to his own occasions, under the gouerment of his mother."

Volunteers who drew Cedar Swamps lots in Narragansett township which were granted to the volunteers of the Narragansett War, site of lots being now Voluntown, Conn.—Roger Orvis.

Enrollment of English volunteers in the late Narragansett War (on file in the Clerk's Office, Voluntown, Conn.) name No. 166 is that of Roger Orvis.

It is claimed that this Roger is the one to whom King James of England presented the cane for bravery in the Indian wars. It is now held by Eleazer, of Pilkington, Va., who removed from Oakville, Wis.

Extract from will of John Person, of Farmington, May 9, 1725: "And to Roger Orvis and John Andrews, I give and bequeath to each of them what they are now indebted to me."

Will of Martha (Handerson), of Hartford, Conn., dated Sept. 22, 1699, says in part:

"In case my son, James, shall not live to attain the age of 21 years, then I give my said house and home lot to my three daughters, namely, Miriam Orvice, Mary Wright and Sarah Handerson, to be divided equally, but if Mary does not come and settle in this colony then the other two daughters are to receive all." (Miriam was Roger's wife.)

Will of Roger Orvis, dated December 18, 1736, inventory taken by Isaac Cowles and Samuel Nash 179-12-07.

"I, Roger Orvis, of Farmington, do make this my last will and testament. I give to my wife, Miriam, my estate all, both real and personal, to be at her own dispose, to give to my own children. I appoint my wife, Miriam Orvice, sole executrix.

SOME OF THE MANY "LEGENDS" CONCERNING THE CELEBRATED ORVIS CANE

E. E. Orvis, in his pamphlet, says of Roger, son of George: "He distinguished himself for bravery and skill in the various Indian wars in the early settlement of New England. For these services he was presented with a sword and cane by direction of the King of England. The latter is still in existence and in the possession of Silas Orvis, Whitby, Ont., Can. The cane was of bamboo, mounted with an ivory head and a heavy silver chain, which was fastened to the cane by a silver eye, but the ornaments have disappeared many years since."

In a letter to the writer (F. W. Orvis), James C. Orvis, then of Maywood, Ill., says: "The cane is now in Milwaukee, I think in the possession of Ebenezer Orvis, brother of George Orvis, who used to live in Chicago. The cane is a reed, petrified. There was once a manuscript with it but is now lost. There were two Orvis brothers came to America from England about 1600. This cane was presented to them by the Black Prince (see English history), for bravery in guarding his castle. An English lady was here last year (1896) and said she had been in the castle and had seen the armor they claimed was once worn by the Prince. The Orvises first came from Wales and all started from these brothers. They settled first in Massachusetts, Vermont and Connecticut."

(As the Black Prince died in 1376 it could not have been he that presented the cane, unless it was presented to the ancestors of those that came to this country in 1600.—F. W. O.)

H. D. Orvis, Churches Ferry, N. D., says in a letter dated Mar. 4, 1897: "Eleazer, second son of Lorenzo Orvis, settled in Oakfield, Wis., near my father, Isaac Orvis, about 1847. He died leaving a son, Eleazer, who inherited and has in his possession the celebrated reed cane. Silas, brother of the elder Eleazer and son of Lorenzo, never would receive the came, it being as a reward for valor in war and all of the family were birthright Quakers."

Children of Samuel (1) Orvis and Deborah (——?——)

Male Line: George[0]—Samuel[1]

DEBORAH[2]—Born April 17, 1681. Baptized May 14, 1681. Died prior to 1726. Married April 8, 1699, at Farmington, Conn., Ebenezer Barnes, who died in 1756, son of Thomas Barnes and brother of Deacon Thomas Barnes.

MARTHA[2]—Baptized May 6, 1683, at Farmington. Married Dec. 7, 1704 (1) Nathaniel Hunn, of Wethersfield, at Farmington. Nathaniel died Dec. 7, 1712, and she married, Dec. 9, 1714, (2) John Root, Jr., of Farmington, who was born Sept. 9, 1690, and died in 1767; son of John and Mary (Woodruff) Root.

They settled in Southington, that part of it that is now called Plainville.

SAMUEL[2]—Baptized October 25, 1685. Married September 5, 1707, Rachel (Andrus), of Waterbury, who was born July 11, 1686, daughter of Abraham and Rebecca (Carrington) Andrus. He died prior to 1735 and Rachel married, December 28, 1738, (2) Thomas Richards, widower, at Farmington, Conn., son of Thomas and Mary (Parsons) Richards.

Samuel joined the Church June 10, 1707, at the same time that his cousin, David, did.

In Farmington, in 1716, Samuel Orvis was one of three appointed to keep order in the meeting house on days of public worship, "Who shall sit conveniently to inspect the youth."

John and Joan Carrington, grandparents of Rachel Andrus, were both tried for witchcraft, found guilty and probably hanged in 1651 or 1652. The witchcraft trial was at Hartford, Conn., March, 1651 or 1652, forty years before the Salem witchcraft shambles. See "Wethersfield," Vol. 2, page 681.

Letters from Governor Belcher to Samuel Orvis, one dated May 10, 1733, another June 26, 1732, the latter asking Samuel to lay out the 30 acres of land granted Belcher by the town of Farmington; the former about the sale of Samuel's land. See Belcher Papers, Vol. VI, part 1, pages 477 and 501, Mass. His. Society.

MARGARET[2]—Baptized April 7, 1687. Married, May 14, 1706, at Wethersfield, William Goodrich, Jr., who was born July 21, 1686. Died March 31, 1743. Son of William and Grace (Riley) Goodrich.

See History of Sharon, 1877 edition, page 134.

Ensign William Goodrich married Sarah (Marvin); their son, Lieutenant William Goodrich, married Grace (Riley); their son, William Goodrich, married Margaret[2] (Orvis), daughter of Samuel[1] Orvis, sometimes called "Goodman" Orvis.

SARAH[2]—Baptized October 12, 1690, at Farmington.

ANNA[2]—Baptized November 11, 1694. Married, August 25, 1710, at Farmington, Joseph Coggswell, who was born in Saybrook, April 10, 1682, son of Samuel and Susanna (Haven) Coggswell.

SECOND GENERATION

Children of Roger Orvis and Miriam (Handerson)

Male Line: George[0]—Roger[1]

ELIZABETH[2]—Born Oct., 1693, at Farmington. Joined Church March 11, 1711. Married, April 26, 1716, at Farmington, John Andrews, who was born May 8, 1685, son of Benjamin and Mary (Smith) Andrews.

EBENEZER[2]—Born Oct. 3, 1695. Died Feb. 13, 1696, at Farmington.

DAVID[2]—Born March 2, 1697, at Farmington. Died May 20, 1760. Married, Feb. 5, 1719, at Farmington, Hannah (Gaylord), of Windsor, who was born Sept. 4, 1700, and was daughter of Eleazer and Martha (Thompson) Gaylord.

Some have said that David was married twice and that he had a son, David, by his second wife. There are indications of another branch of the family, but I have been unable to get anything definite on the subject other than I have here recorded.

BETHIA or BETHIAH[2]—Born Jan. 13, 1698, at Farmington. Died Nov. 1, 1702.

ABIAH[2]—Born November 2, 1702, at Farmington.

EBENEZER[2]—Born October 3, 1705, at Farmington. Died in June, 1771. Married (1) January 23, 1732, Elizabeth (Root), who was born April 8, 1706, daughter of Calib and Elizabeth (Salman) Root. She died Jan. 27, 1746, and Ebenezer married (2), October 6, 1747, Elidia (Lee) (Norton), who was born June 22, 1708, and died Sept. 2, 1786, daughter of Thomas and Mary (Camp) Lee. Elidia had married (1), February 2, 1737, Samuel Norton, who died August 31, 1745.

On January 29, 1776, a committee of inspection reported that Elidia had been using India tea. Lieutenant Ebenezer said he had also done so for the purpose of being able to brag about it. There was quite a hubbub about this affair for most folks were intensely patriotic. Eventually, Lieutenant Ebenezer Orvis appeared before the committee and made suitable confession, which was deemed satisfactory.

MARY[2]—Born October 18, 1707, at Farmington.

Added to the Church "December 10, 1710—Mary Orvice on Miriam Orvice's owning ye covenant."

SECOND GENERATION

Children of Mary (Orvis) and Samuel Scott

Male Line: George[0]—Mary[1]

MARTHA SCOTT[2]—Born Dec. 7, 1687, at Farmington.

EBENEZER SCOTT[2]—Born August 19, 1694, at Farmington.

SAMUEL SCOTT, JR.[2]—Born October 7, 1696, at Farmington.

MARY SCOTT[2]—Born March 1, 1700, at Farmington.

HEZIKIAH SCOTT[2]—Born Sept., 1703, at Farmington.

SECOND GENERATION—NOTES

Samuel[2] Orvis, the only son of Samuel[1], both of Farmington, Conn., was offered 30 acres of land January 30, 1718, if he came with his family to Northfield, Mass., and stayed four years there. "In 1720, he sold land to Rev. Benjamin Doolittle and his house lot to Stephen Belding." "March 2, 1719, the inhabitants of the town of Northfield, at a legally assembled meeting, have chosen as their officers * * * among the names being that of Sam. Orvis, appointed Haward for Pochang."

Haward was a keeper or watcher of the cows and drove them to and from the public pastures. Pochang was the next to the largest pasture land in Northfield, Mass.

The records of marriages show that "Margaret, daughter of 'Goodman' Orvis, married William Goodrich, May 14, 1706." The writer assumes that this "Goodman" Orvis is none other than Samuel[1], who was held in very high esteem by his contemporaries. He had a daughter, Margaret, who was the right age and we know of no other Margaret Orvis who was of the right age. Samuel had "owned ye covenant and joined ye church and his children are baptized." He was a "good man."

Henry R. Styles, in the History of Ancient Wethersfield, Conn., writes "Goodman" in quotation marks, showing that he also considered it a nickname.

William Goodrich, Jr., who married Margaret, daughter of "Goodman" Orvis, was a lieutenant in the Army. He was a settler of Litchfield and lived there 10 years and removed to Sheffield, Mass., and later to Sharon, Conn.

"Samuel Orvis sold 300 acres of land to Daniel Jackson, and also a part interest in another tract of 100 acres, both near the New York line." This was prior to 1734. See Colonial Records of Connecticut, 1726-1735, Vol. 4, Page 501. (Probably Samuel[2]).

Samuel[2] was in Northfield Foot Co., in King Philip's War; in Captain John Burk's company in same war, March 2, 1757; also Selah Barnard's company, March 13, 1757.

William, son of Samuel[2], owned 100 acres of land and town lot No. 16 in Northfield, Mass., April 9, 1753.

Ebenezer Orvis was one of the three who made inventory of Ebenezer Moody's estate on July 19, 1748.

Julius Gay, historian of Farmington, says: "Samuel Orvis settled in Dummerston, Vt." That must have been after he left Northfield, Mass. He was one of the "Early Settlers."

FOURTH GENERATION—NOTES (Continued)

A mill was built by John Bronson on what was long known as Mill Brook, until our more sentimental age named the locality Diamond Glen. It was sold to Deacon Stephen Hart before 1650, and there is reason to believe he erected a grist mill in addition to the well-known sawmill before 1673, for on the 16th of February, 1673, he paid Deacon Bull for sharpening his mill bills. Of course, they may have been for use at his mill on the river, which was built some time before 1701.

Deacon Thomas Bull sold Daniel Andrews on the 12th day of January, 1674, four acres of land for three pairs of shoes, two for himself and one for his son John Bull. You can compute the price of shoes at your leisure.

Currency, whether gold, silver or paper, was practically unknown. When a man died and his estate was inventoried, a few shillings were sometimes found hoarded up. Business was done by barter, wheat at four shillings the bushel being the basis. It corresponded to our gold standard. Lower prices were charged with the proviso that payment should be in wheat. Indian corn was two and one-half shillings per bushel, pork three pence the pound, beef two and one-half, bacon eight, venison one and one-half, cheese five, sugar (probably maple) five, flax twelve, wool eighteen, and candles nine. A whole salmon sold for one shilling. Instead of tallow candles a cheaper substitute was largely used. In 1696 the town voted that no inhabitant should be prohibited from felling pine trees in our sequestered lands for candle wood. The same right was again granted in 1703. The Rev. Francis Higginson, in his "New England's Plantation," written in the year 1629, writes: "Yea our pine-trees that are the most plentiful of all wood, doth allow us plenty of candles which are very useful in a house: and they are such candles as the Indians use, having no other, and they are nothing else but the wood of the pine tree cloven into little slices, something thin, which are so full of the moisture of turpentine and pitch, that they burn as clear as a torch."

From a stray leaf of the town accounts we learn that in 1718 Ebenezer Barnes and Samuel Scott were each paid six shillings and eight pence for killing wolves.

THIRD GENERATION

Children of Samuel (2) Orvis and Rachel (Andrus)

Male Line: George[0]—Samuel[1]—Samuel[2]

EUNICE[3]—Born October 24, 1708.

WILLIAM[3]—Born May 15, 1710, at Simsbury, Conn. (Some say Shrewsbury, 1700). Died June 14, 1774, and was buried in West Brattleboro, Vermont. Married (1) Anna (——?——), who died August 19, 1746; (2) in 1750, Martha (Severence) (Burt), widow of Ashel Burt. She died September 30, 1754. (3) in 1755, Elizabeth (Severence), daughter of Ephraim and Mary (Burnham) Severence. She was born in 1717 and died October 31, 1806. Buried in West Brattleboro, Vermont.

He was in Winchester in 1743 and in Northfield in 1749.

See Burt Family Genealogies; there are at least two of them and together they give us the name of William's second wife.

Ashel Burt was killed by the Indians on April 15, 1747, while he and another man were driving the cows to or from pasture. Ashel was not scalped, but his companion was. The History of Northfield states that Ashel was also scalped. He and his companion were the hawards of Pochang. Pochang was the next to the largest common grazing ground of Northfield, Mass., and was later divided up among the inhabitants, principally to newcomers.

CHARLES[3]—Born October 11, 1711. Died October 15, 1743. Married, October 2, 1734, Elizabeth (Gridley), who was born September 29, 1715, daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth (Bronson) Gridley. Elizabeth married (2) before 1753, (——?——) Steadman. She was living in 1761.

SAMUEL, JR.[3]—Born August 26, 1713.

Made will in 1740, which gave his estate to his brothers, Charles, Gershom, William and his sister, Deborah.

DEBORAH[3]—Born June 10, 1715. Married July 12, 1741, Jonathan Barnes, who was born May 19, 1716, and was son of Jacob and Grace (Bronson) Barnes. He died September 16, 1751. Deborah was living in 1754.

MERCY[3]—Born April 24, 1717.

GERSHOM[3]—Born August 28, 1719. Died August 28, 1780. Married November 11, 1772, Jemima (Miller) Judd, widow of Jonah Judd, to whom she was married November 18, 1748. She was a daughter of Abraham and Sarah (Danks) Miller and died at Chesterfield, Mass., September 11, 1807. Her first husband, Jonah, was born September 30, 1714, and died June 2, 1761, son of Joseph and Sarah (Winchell) Judd.

DINAH[3]—Born May 13, 1721. Died February 18, 1761. Married November 15, 1743, Jonathan Wilcox, of Middletown, Conn., who was born January 4, 1723 or 1724, son of Thomas and Anna (North) Wilcox. Jonathan married (2) Rachel (Leron) in 1762.

THIRD GENERATION

Children of Martha Orvis and Nathaniel Hunn

Male Line: George[0]—Samuel[1]—Martha[2]

HANNAH HUNN[3]—Born October 4, 1705.

NATHANIEL HUNN[3]—Born September 10, 1708.

Children of Ebenezer Orvis and Elizabeth (Root)

Male Line: George[0]—Roger[1]—Ebenezer[2]

ELIZABETH[3]—Born January 18, 1833. Died August 3, 1789. Married (1) September 29, 1747, Timothy Parks. Married (2) Jacob Byngton, who was born in 1740 and died November 25, 1793.

ZADOCK[3]—Born July 26, 1737-8, in Farmington. Died February 27, 1811. Married in Farmington, January 3, 1763, Keziah (Judd), who was born September 3, 1741, and died March 27, 1826, daughter of James and Eunice (Thompson) Judd. James Judd was born August 27, 1713, a descendant of Deacon Thomas Judd, one of the original settlers of Farmington.

Zadock was a Revolutionary soldier in Col. Fisher Gay's regiment and Capt. Isaac Bidwell's company, the first company in the Fifteenth regiment, General Wadsworth's brigade.

The original list of the officers and men of this regiment was preserved and was in the possession of Julius Gay, of Farmington, Conn. He was a descendant of Col. Fisher Gay. I have been unable to find this list published anywhere except in the "Hawley Record." It is found there under "Amos Hawley" on page 474.

James Judd was guardian of his brother Mathew's children. He was also selectman of Farmington, Conn., in Revolutionary times.

LOIS[3]—Born August 5, 1740. Died August 20, 1766. Married December 4, 1759, Leet or Seth Kellogg, who was born February 8, 1739-40, son of John and Ann (Coley) Kellogg.

KEZIAH[3]—Born August 4, 1743. Died September 21, 1795, at Homer, N. Y. Married August 12, 1762, Thomas Gould Alvord, who was born March 1, 1742, at Middletown, Conn., and came, May 18, 1810, to Homer, N. Y. Alvord married (2) before 1799, Hannah (Hart), widow of Jacob Byngton, he having died November 25, 1793. Hannah died at Homer, N. Y., September 20, 1833.

Children of Ebenezer Orvis and Elidia (Lee) (Norton) (By Second Marriage)

Male Line: George[0]—Roger[1]—Ebenezer[2]

ELIDIA[3]—Born September 6, 1748. Married (1) June 21, 1770, Benjamin Hawley, who was born June 26, 1745, son of Ebenezer and Mary (Hart) Hawley. He died January 13, 1771. Elidia married (2) January 23, 1775, David Smith.

THIRD GENERATION—NOTES

Abstracts of records made from old Town Records and Histories:

From List of Soldiers of the French and Indian Wars (in book form):

The Roll of Lieutenant Catlin's Men December 10, 1747, to June 10, 1748, includes the name of William Orvis, of Winchester.

Muster Roll, Captain Catlin's Men, Second Company, in service at the Westward, October 13 to December 11—William Orvis.

William Orvis was born in Simsbury; was in Winchester in 1743 and Northfield in 1749.

Winchester was settled in 1634.

The year Elizabeth Severence (William's third wife) was born, snow fell to the depth of from 10 to 20 feet in New England, February 20 to 24, 1717. She died in 1806, one year before Fulton's first steam boat voyage and the birth of General Robert E. Lee, in 1807.

In 1747, we find William Orvis, of Winchester, in Captain Phineas Stewart's company. We find him in Captain John Catlin's company on October 13, 1757.

"Lot No. 16. William Orvis, 100 acres. Fourth Division. Undivided Lands of Northfield, Mass."

Colonial Records of Connecticut, 1751-1757, Vol. X, page 473:

"Fifth Company: Benj. Allen, Captain; Henry Chapin, 1st Lieutenant; Ebenezer Orvis, 2d Lieutenant. His pay was 3 pounds 12 shillings per month."

The Colonial Records show that:

Elizabeth Orvis, widow of Charles Orvis, asks permission of the Court to sell enough of his estate to pay off old debts to the amount of 11 pounds, eight shillings and four pence. The request was granted. This was in 1744. A similar request was made and granted in 1746 for the amount of 9 pounds, 4 shillings and 3 pence.

December 6, 1743, the Court granted administration on the estate of Charles Orvis, of Farmington, inventory 261 pounds, no shillings and 14 pence, to his wife, Elizabeth and Ebenezer Gridley, who gave bonds of 300 pounds to Thomas Gridley. Certain amounts of this property were sold to pay debts May 14, 1744, and also on June 5, 1744, and May 6, 1746.

From Probate Records:

ORVIS-AZUBA—Farmington Court Records, pages 31 to 35, Aug., 1735. Rachael Orvice to be guardian to Azuba and Oliver Orvice, children of Samuel and Rachael Orvice. Recog. £100.

THIRD GENERATION—NOTES (Continued)

Samuel[3] Orvis's will, dated August 6, 1740, distributes his real and personal property among his brothers and sisters:

William Orvis, of Winchester.
Charles Orvis, of Farmington.
Gershom Orvis, of Farmington.
Deborah Orvis, of Farmington.

"I give unto my said brother, Gershom, my saddle, bridle, axe and hoe and to Charles and Gershom my wearing apparel."

His signature is spelled "ORVISS."

Will of Martha Burnham, of Wethersfield, dated August 7, 1733, gives "Five-sixths of all my estate, share and share alike to my children now living." Hannah Orvis is mentioned as one of the children.

This is, without doubt, Hannah (Gaylord), whose mother married (2) Burnham.

In the pamphlet published by Edward E. Orvis (my father) and the data contained in it incorporated in my "Outlines" it is plain to be seen that he had the families of David and Ebenezer (both sons of Roger) badly mixed. He was in error, also, when he said Zadock had no sons, as will be seen by referring to the fourth generation.

I have been unable so far to find any record of a second marriage of David Orvis.

FOURTH GENERATION

Children of Zadock Orvis and Keziah (Judd)

Male Line: George[0]—Roger[1]—Ebenezer[2]—Zadock[3]

BELINDA[4]—Born August 8, 1764. Married April 14, 1785, Charles Bartholomew, who was born June, 1760, son of Abraham, Jr., and Eunice (Orvis) Bartholomew.

Eunice was a daughter of Charles Orvis.

LOIS[4]—Born (——?——). Living in 1811. Married Samuel Rowe, son of Daniel, who was baptized August 7, 1763 (Bristol Episcopal Church), and died December 30, 1825.

OLIVER[4]—Was living in 1811.

EUNICE[4]—Baptized July 23, 1769. Was living in 1811. Married Elijah Marsh.

A DAUGHTER[4]—Who died in 1771.

SALLY[4]—Born 1781. Died January 14, 1868. Married Abijah Bacon, of Middletown, Conn., December 24, 1805.

They removed to Trumbull County, Ohio, some time before 1820.

WILLIAM[4]—Baptized January 7, 1776. Died March 30, 1857 or 1858. Married (1) January, 1802, Sarah (Benton), who was born April 24, 1773, daughter of Ebenezer and Anna (Hosford) Benton. She died March 22, 1813. He married (2) November, 1813, Clarissa Young, of Bethlehem, who was born 1783, and died June 2, 1846.

MANNA[4]—Baptized June 28, 1778. Died March, 1838. Married May, 1814, at Harwinter, Charlotte (Smith), who was born in 1781, and died September 8, 1857. Charlotte married (2) July 1, 1839, Seth Hart, who was born April 19, 1765, and died February 21, 1852.

Manna's wife was probably a widow when he married her, for the records show that Manna was guardian to Charlotte Roberts in 1824. One item in his report was for boarding and schooling Charlotte for 13 months at 75 cents per month. Another item by one "Smith" (probably the parent of Manna's wife), was for boarding and schooling for three years of Charlotte Roberts, $20.00.

NANCY[4]—Born August 13, 1783, and baptized December 6, 1795. Died November 3, 1826. Married John Thomson, Jr., who was born April 6, 1778, and died November 28, 1843, son of John and Mary (Merritt) Thomson.

TAMAR[4]—Married Luke Thomson, who was born in 1754 and died April 14, 1813.

Zadock, in his will, dated March 12, 1811, does not mention "Tamar," but his wife, in her will, does, and gives "to my daughter, Tamar, the wife of Luke Thomson, the sum of eighty dollars." She also speaks of her son, Ebenezer Combs, and leaves him twenty dollars. Who was he? She probably married again after Zadock's death.

Children of Eleazer Orvis and Hannah (North)

Male Line: George⁰—Roger¹—David²—Eleazer³

RUBEN⁴—Born March 20, 1744, at Norfolk, Conn. Died April, 1814, at Hartford, Conn. Married (1) Ruth (Picket), October 7, 1772, and (2) Thankful (Bowles) in 1805.

He was baptized in Norfolk and was married to his first wife there, but removed to Hartford, Conn., where he married his second wife.

ROGER⁴—Born January 24, 1745. Married February 27, 1766 (1) Ruth (Howe) in Goshen, Conn., and (2) in July, 1788, Marianna Roxanna (Seward) in Norfolk, Conn., who was born October 29, 1769, daughter of Lieutenant Joseph and Elizabeth (Seward). She was baptized October 29, 1769, and died in 1856.

There was a Squire Orvis living in Dumdorff, Susquehanna County, Pa., who was probably the same person.

For further particulars, see Notes, Fourth Generation.

DAVID⁴—Born January, 1747. Died in 1843. Married February 6, 1777 Lydia (Hawley), who was born September 15, 1739, and was daughter of Samuel and Elizabeth (Gridley) Hawley.

He was a Revolutionary soldier from Connecticut.

In the first census of the United States, there are given two Davids: one from Connecticut and one from Vermont. From the fact that the David from Connecticut married Lydia (Hawley) and had a son, Uriel Hawley Orvis, and from the additional fact that this David did remove to Vermont and his descendants all claim Vermont as their home, we assume that the census man "got" David twice and that they are one and the same person. There are those who believe that there was more than one David, but I have found no evidence that this was a fact. It has also been contended that David was twice married. If so, I have been unable to demonstrate that contention.

ELEAZER, JR.⁴—Born March 19, 1749. Died in November, 1778. Made a member of the Church at Norfolk, Conn., November 15, 1767. Married July 8, 1770, Phebe (Knapp). Phebe married (2) Nathan Blackman, who died December 18, 1786.

Eleazer was a Revolutionary soldier and died from disease which was the result of exposure.

Nathan Blackman was one of the newcomers of Winchester in the year 1777. He was from Stratford, England, and was a remarkably tall and athletic man. He lived in a house that stood on the cross-road, in the rear of the house of Mrs. Sophronia Leonard. Had daughters: Abagail, born January 17, 1784; Elizabeth, born September, 1785.

HANNAH⁴—Born April 15, 1751. Died April 9, 1813. Married Nathan Fellows.

Lived in Sullivan, Tioga Co., Pa.

PHEBE⁴—Born March 21, 1753. Married Russel Rose.
Russel Rose married (2) Lydia Orvis, sister of his first wife.

SAMUEL⁴—Born March 6, 1755, in Norfolk, Conn. Died November 3, 1852, at Pulteney, Steuben County, N. Y. Married September 10, 1783,

Children of Eleazer Orvis and Hannah (North) continued

Caroline (Seward), who was born August 26, 1766, and was daughter of Joseph and Elizabeth Seward.

Samuel and Roger married sisters.

A Samuel joined the Church in Norfolk, August 11, 1799.

He was a Revolutionary soldier from Connecticut and was in the Battle of Tippecanoe.

MARGARET⁴—Born February 9, 1757. Died March 4, 1832. Married June 3, 1781, at Norfolk, Conn., Elisha Hawley, born October 22, at North Norfolk, Conn., and died August 1, 1831, son of Samuel and Elizabeth (Gridley) Hawley.

Margaret and David Orvis, brother and sister, married Lydia and Elisha Hawley, brother and sister.

JOSEPH⁴—Born February 2, 1759. Died at North Norfolk in 1832. Married (1) Susan (Turner), and (2) Mabel or Mehitabel (Butler).

RUTH⁴—Born January 12, 1761. Died unmarried, April 16, 1846, at Sullivan, Pa. Joined Church at Norfolk, Conn., July 3, 1774.

LYDIA⁴—Born March 20, 1764. Died June 3, 1857. Married Russel Rose.

She was Russel's second wife and sister to his first wife. Descendants live in Tioga County, Pa.

HULDAH⁴—Born January, 1766. Married Jonathan Webster, January 4, 1787, at Norfolk, Conn.

Did live at Sullivan, Tioga County, Pa. Descendants live in Tioga County, Pa.

EUNICE⁴—Born October 13, 1769. Married William Turner. Baptized Sept. 9, 1770.

JESSE⁴—Born June 11, 1772, at Norfolk, Conn. Died May 28, 1858, at Sullivan, Pa. Baptized Feb. 11, 1773. Married February 23, 1792, Susannah (Holden).

All of the children of Eleazer Orvis were born at Norfolk, Conn.

Children of Charles Orvis and Elizabeth (Gridley)

Male Line: George⁰—Samuel¹—Samuel²—Charles³

RUTH⁴—Born October 2, 1735. Married, October 24, 1753, James Heacock.

A wife of James died November 16, 1783.

ELLINOR⁴—Born March 24, 1737-8. Died October 8, 1791, in Plainville, Conn. Married January 26, 1758, John Hamlin, who was born November 16, 1736, in Suffield and died November 26, 1821.

EUNICE⁴—Born February 26, 1739-40, at Farmington. Died May 13, 1825, in New Britain. Married Abraham Bartholomew, of Bristol, who was born in Branford, January 28, 1732-33, son of Abraham and Hannah (Page) Bartholomew. He died in 1776.

MERCY⁴—Born September 29, 1742, and died June 14, 1746.

FOURTH GENERATION

Children of William Orvis and Anna (——?——), His First Wife

Male Line: George[0]—Samuel[1]—Samuel[2]—William[3]

MERCY or MARY[4]—Born November 12, 1735. Died September 20, 1754.

SAMUEL[4]—Born March 10, 1738, in Simsbury, Conn.

He lived at Hinsdale, N. H., and died at Simsbury, Conn.

Samuel was in the French and Indian War at the Fall of Oswego.

On the Muster Roll of Capt. Selah Barnard's company, Col. William Williams' regiment, March 13 to December 13, 1758-1760, for the reduction of Canada appears the name of Sam. Orvis.

WILLIAM, JR.[4]—Born May 8, 1740, at Northfield, Mass. Died at Dummerston, Vt., January 11, 1801. Married about 1764, Mindwell (Holton), who was born about 1712.

Moved from Northfield, Mass., to Leyden, now called Bernardston, in 1785, and from there to Dummerston, Vt., where he died. A slate stone marks his resting place in Dummerston, near the Meeting House.

RACHAEL[4]—Born March 15, 1742.

RACHAEL[4]—Born December 20, 1743.

There were two Rachaels.

ANNA[4]—Born March 4, 1746. Married (——?——) Alexander.

One or more of her descendants lived in Newbury, Seneca County, Ohio, in 1857. One was Justin Alexander.

Children of William Orvis and Martha (Severence) (Burt), Second Wife

Male Line: George[0]—Samuel[1]—Samuel[2]—William[3]

CHARLES[4]—Born August 20, 1751, at Northfield, Mass.

OLIVER[4]—Born October 2, 1752, at Northfield, Mass. Married at Halifax, Vt., Patty (Stebbins), who was baptized February 2, 1755, and was daughter of Josiah and Mary (Howe) Stebbins, of Halifax, Vt.

He lived in Halifax, Vt., and is said to have lived in Mexico, N. Y., at one time.

GERSHOM[4]—Born May 23, 1754, at Northfield, Mass. Died March 9, 1824, at LeRay, Jefferson County, N. Y. Married July 17, 1776, at Brattleboro, Vt., Asenath (Parmenter), of Northfield, Mass., who was born in 1757 and died in 1840 at LeRay, Jefferson County, N. Y.

Buried in Evans Mills, Jefferson County, N. Y. He was in Brattleboro, Vermont, in 1782.

FOURTH GENERATION

Children of William Orvis and Elizabeth (Severence), Third Wife

Male Line: George[0]—Samuel[1]—Samuel[2]—William[3]

WAITSTILL[4]—Born December 2, 1755, in Northfield, Mass. Died October 11, 1823, in West Brattleboro, Vt. Married December 17, 1777, at Brattleboro, Vt., Elizabeth (Church), who was born October 19, 1757, and died September 14, 1832, at Dummerston, Vt., daughter of Malachi and Elizabeth (Miller) Church.

Both are buried in West Brattleboro, Vt. He was in Hinsdale in 1775 and was an Ensign in Revolutionary War. See note. He was known as "Esquire" Orvis, the office being equivalent to our Justice of the Peace.

AMBROSE[4]—Born in Halifax, Windham County, Vt., July 7, 1758. Died August 30, 1844, at Wixam, Mich. Married Rebecca (——?——), at Northfield, Mass., who died August 14, 1824.

Ambrose was buried at New Hudson (or Wixom), Oakland Co., Mich., near South Lyon and about six miles south of Milford. He was a Revolutionary soldier—a musician, and played a snare drum at both inaugurals of Washington in New York. (This drum was owned by his grandson, Jas. C. Orvis, Maywood, Cook Co., Ill., as late as Mar. 18, 1897). Ambrose (1) knew Gen. Putnam and Ethan Allen. He was a fine singer and sang many times in Washington's camp when in winter quarters. His wife, Rebecca, died Aug. 14, 1824.

FOURTH GENERATION—NOTES

Waitstill Orvis, son of William Orvis and Elizabeth (Severence), lived in Hinsdale, Vt., from 1777 to 1796. He was a soldier in the War of the Revolution, enlisting from Hinsdale, Vt., now Hinsdale, N. H. (Vermont was at that time claimed by the State of New York and was called "New York," also the "New Hampshire Grants.") A Muster Roll of Capt. Elisha Benedict's company, Col. Goose Von Schaick's regiment of the New York line for January 31, 1776, shows Waighstill Orvis was feifer, enlisted January 31, 1776. His brother, Gershom, enlisted same day as private. Company stationed at Chambly Fort, Second Regiment. Also in Vermont State papers as given by New York State Archives, Vol. I, 1887, under the officers of the Cumberland County Militia, commissioned first January 4, 1776. He moved to Dummerston, Vt. He married December 17, 1777, Elizabeth Church, of Brattleboro, Vt., at that place, which was then included in the State of New York. She was born October 19, 1757, at Westfield, Mass., and died September 12, 1832, at Dummerston, Vt. He died at Brattleboro October 11, 1823. Both were buried at West Brattleboro, Vt. Waitstill lived in Brattleboro, but most of his children were born in Hinsdale, Vt. (now New Hampshire), Simeon Victor and Levi Church being the only ones born in Brattleboro. He held the office that was then known as "Esquire of the Peace" and was known as Squire Orvis. He is said to have been a man of more than ordinary ability. He and his wife, Elizabeth (Church), and his mother, "Elizabeth, relict of William," are buried in the cemetery at West Brattleboro, Vt. Elizabeth (Church) is said to have been a descendant of Capt. John Church, who killed King Philip, the Indian Chief of the well-known King Philip's War. On the brown stone slab, marking the resting place of Waitstill, this verse is chiseled:

"Lord, what a feeble piece
Is this, our mortal frame.
Our life, how poor a trifle 'tis,
That scarce deserves a name."

He was a peace-maker and settled many personal quarrels for his neighbors, who held him in high esteem.

"While General Winslow was delayed in his intended movement on Crown Point, the French, under Montcalm, invaded the English fort at Oswego on the South side of Lake Ontario, and took it, August 14, 1756. Anxiety about the victorious Montcalm led the Massachusetts authorities to impress men out of the militia to go to Winslow's support. Among the names of these men selected from the militia appears that of Samuel Orvis. During the winter of 1756, Capt. John Burk raised a company of Rangers, who were mustered in March 2, 1757, all told fifty-five men. Among them was Samuel Orvis. Their headquarters were Hindsells Fort and Burks Garrison and in the spring Fort William Henry at the southern end of Lake George. They guarded frontiers and were on the march from April 15 to November 30, 1757."

The persistent reiteration of the statement that the father of William Orvis was Gad, Jr., and his father, Gad, Sr., and his father, George, leads me to believe that Gad was a nickname given to Samuel (1) and handed down to Samuel (2). The Farmington records, which I personally examined, give the descent as we now have it, viz: George^{0}—Samuel^{1}—Samuel^{2}—William^{3}, and so on. There is no mention of Gad. The first and only instance found by me of that Christian name given to any of the earlier members of our family is that of Gad, the son of David Orvis and Lydia (Hawley). Gad married Sarah Kimball. See Kimball genealogy. (See Fifth Generation.)

Paris, Oneida Co., N. Y., organized Apr. 10, 1789. Jefferson Co. taken from Oneida Co. in 1805. The first settlements began here in 1802.

There were two Gershoms. One was born August 28, 1719, and married Jemima (Miller) (Judd) November 11, 1772. He was the son of the second Samuel and his male line is: George^{0}—Samuel^{1}—Samuel^{2}—Gershom^{3}.

The other was son of William and brother to Waitstill. He married Asenath (Parmenter) and was nephew to the first Gershom. His male line is: George^{0}—Samuel^{1} Samuel^{2}—William^{3}—Gershom^{4}.

FOURTH GENERATION—NOTES (Continued)

Roger Orvis was a Revolutionary soldier in Connecticut. He enlisted February 6, 1776, in Capt. Watson, Jr.'s Eighth Company, Col. Chas. Burrell's Battalion. He settled in Norfolk, Conn. In 1817, he moved to Genesee Co., New York. According to family tradition, Roger Orvis was a soldier and had his right hand shot off at the wrist. It was said that he had two teeth when he was born, one on each jaw, where the double tecth should be. They were rough, like a rasp; in the centre they were sharp and he could bite a pin in two without hurting himself. It is also said that he farmed forty acres of corn, harvested it and sold it for $400, doing all the work himself, after he was 80 years old. He was found dead in bed at the age of 93. All children were born in Litchfield, Conn.

His will, dated December 18, 1836, gives to his second wife his estate and directs that she give it to his own children.

J. R. Orvis, son of Joseph Orvis and nephew of Roger, says Roger died July 6, 1847. In E. E. Orvis' pamphlet the date of Roger's death is given as 1829. This would make him only 84 years of age at that time. Samuel Orvis, son of Roger, lived at Champion, Jefferson Co., N. Y. Roger's descendants are scattered through the Eastern, Northern and Western States and in Canada.

He also lived in Dumdorff, Pa.

"Roger, Private, Capt. John Watson, Jr.'s Co., Fourth Regiment, Connecticut Militia, under Col. Benj. Hinman in Northern Department, discharged November 20, 1775." Private in list of Connecticut pensioners residing in Vermont, Act of 1818.

Two of the sons of Joseph Orvis, Timothy B. and James R., did live at Batavia, Kane County, Ill. Other descendants reside in Western Pennsylvania, in Ohio and other Western states.

Descendants of Lydia and Huldah Orvis reside in Tioga County, Pa.

Samuel, private, pensioned, Norfolk, Conn.

Roger, pensioned. Discharged in Northern Department November 20, 1775.

David, from town of Norfolk, Conn. Served 32 days.

Eleazer, also from town of Norfolk, Conn. Served 32 days.

I take it that these three are the sons of Eleazer and Hannah (North) since their ages would be about right; still it must not be forgotten that William also had a son, Samuel, who would have been of the right age. We know that of the sons of William and Elizabeth the following were said to have been Revolutionary soldiers:

Gershom, Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors in the Revolution. Vol. II, pages 684-5.

Ambrose Orvice, South Hadley, August 12, 1780, aged 23, height 5 ft. 11 inches, complexion light.

Waitstill.

William.

Zadock was Revolutionary soldier. (See Third Generation.)

This indicates that all of the males of both branches of the family who were of proper age at the time of the Revolution were in the war, and their descendants would be eligible to either the Sons or Daughters of the American Revolution or similar societies.

History of Eastern Vermont by Hall, page 773, shows Weighstill Orvis to have been Ensign in Southern Regiment from town of Hinsdale. Captain, Reuben Field. Appointed August 18, 1778.

Capt. Kinsdall's company also given.

From History of Eastern Vermont by Hall, page 438:

"In a Justice's Court in Windham County, organized by authority derived from the laws of Vermont, and held by John Bridgeman, judgment had been rendered on the 29th of July, 1782, against Timothy Church, of Brattleborough, at the suit of Gershom Orvis. A writ of execution was accordingly issued on the 8th of August and Jonathan Hunt, the High Sheriff of the County by appointment of Vermont, was directed to levy on the goods of said Church, and in case of deficiency to commit him to prison. Church, being a Yorker, did not recognize the authority of Vermont and determined to resist it." He did resist it, and by aid of his friends, succeeded in defying the authority of Vermont. This particular history does not state what became of Gershom Orvis' suit against Church, but we all know that Vermont authority eventually won out over that of the "Yorkers."

Gershom's family moved to Brattleboro when he was one year old. Married Asenath Parmenter, daughter of Jason Parmenter, of Northfield, Mass. His farm was at Bernardston, 4 miles from Northfield. Jason Parmenter served in the Revolution as private and corporal in Col. Wells' Regiment from 1775 to 1777. His record can be obtained from Secretary of State of Mass. She was born in 1757, married July 17, 1776. He died Mar. 9, 1824, at LeRay, Jefferson Co., N. Y., and she died about 1840 same place. He (Gershom) was a soldier in the Revolution, serving in the Second Regiment, New York Line, under Col. Goose Van Schaick. (Record can be had from Comptroller of State of New York). Took part in the battle of the "Taking of Chambly Fort," also served in Mass. Line. He lived in Brattleboro until 1796 when he removed to Paris, Oneida Co., N. Y., where he was in 1802, and shortly afterward to LeRaysville, Jefferson Co., N. Y. Widow's application for a pension is on file in Pension Office in Washington. In this she says she is the daughter of Jason Parmenter, of Northfield, Mass. She was 80 years old at the time of application.

LeRaysville was organized Feb. 17, 1806.

The continual recurrence of the same Christian names gives rise to much confusion, especially after so great a lapse of time and where the generations or dates are so near to each other.

No less a personage than Julius Gay, of Farmington, fell into this same error when he had in his Genealogy of the Orvis Family, now in the Connecticut Historical Society at Hartford, Roger Orvis, Jr., married to his father's second wife. Roger, Jr., was never married. (See Orvis Outlines, page 7.)

FIFTH GENERATION

Children of Jesse Orvis (1) and Susannah (Holden)

Male Line: George[0]—Roger[1]—David[2]—Eleazer[3]—Jesse[4]

ALVAH[5]—Born April 3, 1792. Died September 17, 1796.

PRUDENCE[5]—Born June 19, 1796. Married Amazia Warner.

Lived in Chemung County, New York.

LOVINIA[5]—Born December 1, 1799. Died September 25, 1870, in Delmar, Pa. Married about 1820, Ethan Ashley, who was born 1798 in Hancock, N. Y., and died November, 1876, at Stony Fork, Pa.

JESSE, JR.[5]—Born August 15, 1803. Married (1) Betsy (Rowley), who died March 22, 1842, at Sullivan, Pa. Married (2) Elsie Almira (Austin) and removed to Wisconsin.

Betsy Rowley's father was a surgeon in the Revolutionary War and a fine physician. He was a Vermonter.

ELEAZER[5]—Married (1) Celestia (Rich); (2) Marinda (Wilkins).

ALMOND[5]

Lived in Wisconsin; also in Cedar Falls, Iowa, where he died.

Children of Eleazer (2) and Phebe (Knapp)

Male Line: George[0]—Roger[1]—David[2]—Eleazer[3]—Eleazer[4]

Gay and other authorities give the fact of five children, but only give one name—Rebecca, living in 1778. There is reason to believe that there was one son, at least, who lived.

A TWIN[5]—Died March, 1773.

A TWIN[5]—Died March, 1773.

REBECKAH[5]—Living in 1778.

A CHILD[5]—Died October, 1778.

A CHILD[5]—Died October, 1778.

The records of this family are very meagre, the above being all that I have been able to glean. It is quite possible that a son of Eleazer, Jr., could have been the father of the Eber Orvis, whose family record from Eber down is given under "Unidentified Families" in the back of this book, but I have no evidence to support such contention.

FIFTH GENERATION

Children of Roger Orvis and Ruth (Howe)

Male Line: George[0]—Roger[1]—David[2]—Eleazer[3]—Roger[4]

ROGER[5]—Born January 22, 1767.

Lived in Philadelphia. Did not marry. As the eldest son, he inherited the cane, but having no family it passed to his next brother, Loren (or Lorenzo). He was eleven years older than his brother, Samuel.

RUTH[5]—Married Mr. Hogles.

He later ran away with his father-in-law's horse and saddle and never returned. Ruth then made her home with her parents.

LOREN[5]—Born September 22, 1768, at Norfolk, Conn. Died October 5, 1853. Married (1) Elizabeth (Brooks), who was born February 27, 1773, and died January 1, 1802. Married (2) Lillis (Brown), who was born June 13, 1781, and died June 6, 1867.

He was a Quaker in religion and one of the first settlers of Lincoln, Vt., in March, 1795, with two others. The allotment was 100 acres. His first lot was No. 37, First Division. These three had two sections each or 200 acres. The town was organized in 1798 and he was one of the first Selectmen. His home place was later made a part of the town of Ferrisburg, near Vergennes, Vt., where he died, some say at the age of 93 years, but the dates do not bear this out.

The first night he came to Lincoln he slept in a tree to protect himself from wolves which were numerous and ferocious at that time. He was a shoemaker and tanner by trade and raised sheep. His brother, Philander, worked for him for about a year.

PHILANDER[5]—Born October 11, 1772, at Norfolk, Conn. Baptized February 11, 1773, at Norfolk, Conn. Married Phebe (Chase).

Removed to Lincoln, Vt., where he worked for his brother, Loren, for about a year. He was five years older than his brother, Samuel. His descendants are numerous in Lincoln, Starkesboro and vicinity.

RACHEL[5]—Born January 11, 1775. Baptized April 30, 1775, in Norfolk. Married Mr. Underwood.

Lived in Livingston County, N. Y. Several children.

SAMUEL[5]—Born January 26, 1778, in Norfolk, Conn. Baptized July 19, 1778, in Norfolk, Conn. Died January 14, 1878, at Champion, Jefferson County, N. Y. Married February 2, 1806, at Norfolk, Conn., Sally (Sage).

He settled in Lewis County, N. Y., but later removed to Jefferson County, New York, and took up a tract of land, on which he lived until his death at the advanced age of one hundred years less twelve days. He served in the War of 1812, March 1 to March 22, 1813, in Capt. Israel's Company; September 14 to November 4 in Lieutenant William Root's Company, Militia of New York. Enlisted at Copenhagen, N. Y.

ALMIRA[5]—Born August 4, 1780. Baptized June 24, 1781.

Never married. Owned a farm in Livingston County, N. Y., where her parents lived with her.

ELEAZER[5]—Born September 16, 1782. Baptized February 19, 1783, in Norfolk. Died March 26, 1783.

Children of Roger Orvis and Ruth (Howe) continued

SUSANNAH[5]—Born February 4, 1786. Died July, 1805. Married Horace Cooley, Lewis County, N. Y.

DIANTHA[5]—Born June 18, 1785. Baptized at Norfolk, Conn. Married (——?——) McAlpine.

Children: Two sons.

URANIA[5]—Born May 4, 1787. Baptized at Norfolk, Conn. Married April 5, 1811, Jeduthon Hitchcock.

Several children. Probably was twice married; once to a Mr. Tuttle and lived in Livingston County, New York.

SALOME[5]—Born July 24, 1789. Baptized at Norfolk, Conn. Married (——?——) Clark.

Their daughter married M. Wheeler.

Children of Roger Orvis and Marianne Roxanna (Seward), (Second Marriage)

Male Line: George[0]—Roger[1]—David[2]—Eleazer[3]—Roger[4]

MARIANNE ROXANNA[5]—Born February, 1789. Died October 9, 1877. Married Levi Lewis, May 6, 1808.

There are various ways of spelling the name of Roger's second wife. I have not found two authorities giving the same spelling. Her nephew, in a letter to his brother, spells it as we have it. Ammi Robbins, who officiated both at her baptism and her marriage, spelled it "Mirriamna-Roxina." Mrs. Adam Grimes, a descendant, living in Yankton, S. D., in a letter to the author, spelled it "Mari Amna Roxanna."

Children of Waitstill Orvis and Elizabeth (Church)

Male Line: George[0]—Samuel[1]—Samuel[2]—William[3]—Waitstill[4]

JOSEPH[5]—Born December 30, 1778, in Hinsdale, Vt. Died May 30, 1795, in Brattleboro, Vt.

Fell from a tree and died from the injuries sustained.

JOSEPHUS[5]—Born February 28, 1780, at Hinsdale, Vt. Died December 24, 1855, at Newfane, Vt. Married (1) April 5, 1802, Rebecca (Barney), who was born April 14, 1781, and died November 18, 1817. Married (2), January 1, 1821, Hannah (Whitney) (Campbell), who was born August 15, 1785, and died January 6, 1871, daughter of Israel Whitney, of Brookline, Vt.

Lived at Marlboro and Newfane, Vt. Hannah (Whitney) (Campbell) was a widow with two daughters, one of which, Direxy, married Simeon Victor Orvis, a younger brother of Josephus.

There is some doubt as to the spelling of "Direxy." One authority spells it "Derexcy," but her son, John Mills Orvis, gave me the above spelling.

MALACHI[5]—Born March 6, 1782, at Hinsdale, Vt. Died October 19, 1854, at Brandon, N. Y. Married January 9, 1809, Clarissa (Clark), at Dummerston, Vt.

They resided for a while at Guilford, Vt., then at Dickinson or Brandon, N. Y.

Children of Waitstill Orvis and Elizabeth (Church) continued

WAITSTILL, JR.[5]—Born June 26, 1784, in Hinsdale, Vt. Died August 20, 1815. Married January, 1811, Susan Julia (Grummet), who died in 1816.

He was drowned off the coast of Cape Hatteras, North Carolina. Lived in Bainbridge (now Atlanta), Ga.

The spelling of the name, Grummet, is correct and is taken from the old family Bible.

WILLIAM[5] or ("BILLY")—Born September 14, 1786, in Hinsdale, Vt. Died August 25, 1855. Married March, 1809, Lucy (Thomas) in Hinsdale, Vt.

The old family Bible of Waitstill Orvis records as his fifth child the name of "Billy" as above.

ELIHU[5]—Born October 25, 1788, in Hinsdale, Vt. Died May 18, 1845, at Troy, N. Y. Married February 4, 1813, at Pawlet, Vt., Lucina Chipman (Upham), who was born March 3, 1792, and died April 17, 1867, in New York City; daughter of Joseph P. and Rosabella (Tuttle) Upham.

Lived in Granville, N. Y., from about 1820 to 1840. Shortly thereafter removed to Troy, N. Y., where he is buried.

JOHN MILLS[5]—Born December 18, 1790, at Hinsdale, Vt. Died November 19, 1863, at Salem, Wis. Married August 19, 1811, in Guilford, Vt., Anna (Larrabee), who died June 12, 1883, at Salem, Wis., daughter of Samuel and Polly Larrabee.

He lived in Bangor, Franklin County, N. Y., at one time. He was a blacksmith and a farmer. Was a soldier in the War of 1812.

ELIZABETH[5] or (BETSY)—Born March 10, 1793, in Hinsdale, Vt. Died March 1, 1826. Married January 29, 1815, in Brattleboro, Vt., Elisha Flint, who died September 12, 1832, in Brookline or Dummerston, Vt.

FRANCIS[5]—Born April 15, 1795, in Hinsdale, Vt. Died at Durand, Winnebago County, Wis. Married August 13, 1813, in Brattleboro, Vt., Zeruah (Miller), who died at Burlington, Kane County, Ill.

At one time lived at North Granville, N. Y. Wrote a pamphlet on the Orvis family in 1846.

Hinsdale, Vermont, is now Hinsdale, New Hampshire.

SIMEON VICTOR[5]—Born May 30, 1797, at Brattleboro, Vt. Died May 8, 1885, at Humboldt, Kan. Married January 24, 1824, in Marlboro, Vt., Direxy C. (Campbell), who was born July 9, 1809, in Brookline, Vt., and died November 30, 1890, at Oskaloosa, Iowa; daughter of James and Hannah (Whitney) Campbell.

Both are buried in Oskaloosa, Iowa, in the family plot of John Mills Orvis, of Des Moines, Iowa. They lived in Wilmot and Salem, Kenosha County, Wisconsin, and later in Spring Grove,, McHenry County, Illinois.

Direxy C. Campbell was a daughter of Hannah (Whithey) (Campbell) Orvis, who was a widow when she married Josephus Orvis, older brother of Simeon Victor Orvis. James Campbell, known as Judge Campbell, lived in St. Regis, N. Y., but died in Canada at the home of a daughter. He is said to have been a descendant of the Duke of Argyle, Scotland.

LEVI CHURCH[5]—Born May 19, 1799, in Brattleboro, Vt. Died September 25, 1849, in Philadelphia, Pa. Married January 18, 1823, Electa Sophia (Purdy), who was born August 28, 1803, and died September 30, 1870, daughter of Trueman Purdy, of Manchester, Vt.

Both are buried in the family plot at Manchester, Vt.

He went to Manchester at the age of 18 years. He was a merchant and also dealt in marble. He was postmaster of Manchester and also held successively the commissions of Ensign, Lieutenant, Major and Aid to General Robert's Staff of Vermont Militia. He died of cholera in Philadelphia, Pa., while there on business September 25, 1849. This was before the days of railroads and travel was by stage coach. He always preferred to make his journeys on Friday, as there was less travel that day. He kept a general store and also shipped marble, principally to Philadelphia, via wagons to Troy, N. Y.

The Equinox House, a noted summer resort, developed from his beginning and remained in the family continuously until 1921, when it passed into other hands.

There were 14 children.

URANIA[5]—Born October 22, 1786, in Hinsdale, Vt. Died April 30, 1813. Married April 5, 1811, Jedutha Hitchcock, of Norwich, Chenango County, N. Y.

Had a daughter, Alvina Urania.

AMBROSE, JR.[5]—Born January 19, 1785, at Hinsdale, Vt. Died August 29, 1850, at Wixom, Michigan. Married October 4, 1812, Mary (Moore), who died March 10, 1856.

Mary Moore was a Scotch lady and was sixty-three years and nine months old at her death.

He went away from home when about 17 years of age, shipped on a whaler and was gone about nine years. During that time he was not heard from, nor did he hear from home. Upon his return, a full grown man, six feet three inches tall, there was much rejoicing. He served in the War of 1812. He was like all the old stock of Orvises, a strong, large and powerful man, with high forehead and Roman nose. He was quite the ideal of his home place, having once on the street trounced a powerful English bully.

In a letter from Alton D. Orvis, of Chicago, many years ago, the following interesting memoranda were found:

Ambrose Orvis, born Jan. 7, 1756, at Northfield, Mass., died Aug. 30, 1844, and was buried at New Hudson (or Wixom), Oakland Co., Mich., near South Lyon and about six miles south of Milford. Frank A. Orvis, who visited the graveyard at New Hudson, found the following inscriptions:

Ambrose Orvis, died Aug. 30, 1844, age 86 years.

Ambrose Orvis, Jr., died Aug. 29, 1850, age 65 years.

Children of Ambrose (1) Orvis and Rebecca (——?——) continued

In the family Bible of Ambrose Orvis, Sr. (now in the possession of Mr. Alton D. Orvis, of Chicago, Ill.), there is a record written by Ambrose, Sr., that Rebecca Orvis died Aug. 14, 1824, at 3 p. m. The mother of Alton D., at the age of 82, said that Rebecca was the wife of Ambrose, Sr. The writing of Ambrose, Sr., in this Bible is said to be like copper script. Ambrose, Sr., died at Milford, Oakland Co., Mich. The family was in Springfield Centre, Otsego Co., N. Y., in 1814; in China, now Arcade, Genesee Co., N. Y., in 1819-29, and in Lyon, Oakland Co., Mich., in 1853. Priscilla R. Orvis, wife of Ambrose Curtis Orvis, and mother of Frank A. Orvis, remembers the family as being in Oakland Co. in 1834 and thinks he moved to Michigan in 1829 or 1830. Ambrose, Sr., was a soldier in the Revolution and was made deaf by the artillery or from gun explosions, and drew a pension. (Foot note in pencil here says:

"Not right. He, with others, tried to see how many times they could draw a saw across a timber or log which it was desired to remove from some place under water, and his staying under water so long impaired his hearing a short time afterward." The Record Index of the Revolutionary Rolls of Mass gives his record as follows:

"Ambrose Orvis or Orvice, residence South Hadley, enlisted to serve to the credit of the town of Hadley for the term of six months in 1780, at which time he reported as being 23 years of age. His name also appears on a list of men who passed muster at Camp Totaway, Oct. 25, 1780, but does not appear upon the town payrolls of Hadley or South Hadley."

Note—It is quite likely that Ambrose at that time was living with the rest of the family at Brattleboro, Vt., and that like the rest of his brothers he enlisted in another state for the reason that Vermont did not exist as an entity. For instance, his brothers, Gershom and Waitstill served in both Massachusetts and New York on different occasions.

Note—Springfield was settled by Capt. Prevost in May, 1769, and was burned by Indians in 1778. The name of Ambrose was not among the list of settlers at that time. Most of the sons of William Orvis moved from Brattleboro to Western New York about 1800-1802. Genesee County was taken from Ontario Co. March 30, 1802. China Township was taken from Sheldon Township March 6, 1818. Arcade was a post village and the postoffice was called China. Michigan was made a Territory of the United States January 11, 1805.

MARTHA[5]—Born September 3, 1777, in Hinsdale, Vt. Died July 4, 1842. Married April, 1794, at Halifax, N. Y., Thomas Wicks, who was born August 14, 1769.

They lived at Ox Bow, N. Y. She was a smart woman.

Ox Bow was a post village, so called from a bend in the Oswegatchie River.

HORATIO[5]—Born 1780, at Hinsdale, Vt. Died 1851. Married (1) Betsy Sayre, who was born June 10, 1790, and died in 1825; (2) Harriet Ambler Basset.

He was the first physician at LeRay and one of the first graduates of Fairfield College, Herkimer County, N. Y.

Betsy Sayre was a sister of Hannah Sayre, wife of Charles Orvis.

CYNTHIA[5]—Born 1782, at Hinsdale, Vt. Died 1845. Married Levi Hale.

CHESTER[5]—Born 1783 at Hinsdale, Vt. Died August, 1831, at Lowville, N. Y. Married (1) (——?——); (2) Melissa Balcom at Gowanda, N. Y., who died September 1, 1872, at Rutland, N. Y., at the age of 68.

Left home at the age of 17. Was heard from twice. Was a journeyman printer.

CHARLES[5]—Born October 28, 1796. Died May 31, 1858, at Warren, Ill. Married April 8, 1826, Hannah (Sayre), who was born December 25, 1801, in Southampton, L. I., daughter of Paul and Mary (Halsey) Sayre.

Shortly after his birth the family moved to New York and were in Paris, Oneida Co., N. Y., in 1802. They settled at LeRaysville, Jefferson County, N. Y. He was a physician, graduate of Fairfield College, Herkimer County, N. Y.

Hannah was a sister of Betsy Sayre, the wife of Dr. Horatio Orvis. They settled at Ox Bow. In 1834, they moved to Gouverneur, 9 miles distant from Ox Bow. In September, 1836, they moved to Martinsburg, N . Y., where in 1840 he was County Clerk (Lewis Co.). In 1856, they moved to Illinois and located at Warren. Afterward they moved on a farm 5 miles west of Warren in Wayne Co., Wis. In 1861, the family moved to Nora, Ill., where the wife died September 30, 1868.

Horatio and Charles Orvis were both members of the New York State Legislature sometime between 1820 and 1840.

American Biographical Notes, Hough, page 309: Dr. Charles Orvis, in New York Assembly in 1830 from Jefferson County; afterwards County Clerk of Lewis County. Died at Warren, Illinois, May 31, 1858.

URIEL HAWLEY[5]—Born at Windsor, Vt., October 25, 1784. Died at Massena, N. Y., June 24, 1854. Married (1) Carolina (Boynton) and (2) Laura Lines (Emerson), who was one of the eight daughters of the Reverend William Emerson.

In a letter to the author, dated October 1, 1913, Francis Brew Orvis said:

"My grandfatehr, Uriel Hawley Orvis, was a Colonel of Militia in Vermont after the Revolution. He went to Massena, N. Y., about 1803, at that time a wilderness, and was one of the first settlers. The stone mill and dam he built still stand and are in use. He was a large land owner and organized the Baptist Church. He gave the land and helped to build the present Baptist Church edifice. He also gave land to the Congregational Church. He and his wife were very active in church work. He was not enlisted in 1812, but I believe he took some part in several small skirmishes in that neighborhood."

In the Emerson Family Record Uriel Herbert is given instead of Uriel Hawley, as we have it. David's wife's name was Hawley and the presumption is that that was the name first given. It is so on the records. Julius Gay so gives it. It may have been changed later by use or design.

FIFTH GENERATION—NOTES

November 9, 1790, a charter for the town of Lincoln (which at first embraced a territory of about six miles square), was granted by the Vermont Government to Col. Benjamin Simons and sixty-four associates. December 10, 1794, a survey having been made and lots numbered, each proprietor was assigned two divisions of 100 acres each. these divisions comprised about three-fifths of the grant. The remaining two-fifths were divided the next year. The first settlements were made in the northern part of the town early in the spring of 1795 by Loren Orvis, Lawrence Delong and Marcus Heading, who entered at nearly the same time, in the month of March. The only improvements that had been made previous to this time consisted of one or two log houses, and a road that had been cleared from the north toward the center of the town. In the year following several new settlers took up their residence in town. The privations and hardships incident to the country in the early periods of settlement fell to their lot. Being destitute of wagons they used sleds both summer and winter. The nearest stores were at Middlebury and Vergennes, and the nearest grist-mill at New Haven. The want of passable roads and of accessible places of business, the fierceness of wolves and the general destitution of common conveniences rendered their condition peculiarly hard and trying. In three years after the first settlement the number of inhabitants was sufficient to render a town organization expedient. Accordingly, it was affected on the second Tuesday of March, 1798. stable. A log school house was built near the old grave yard and a school established as early as 1797. This was the only school for Lincoln, the south part of Starksboro and a part of Bristol. It is said that the first school was taught by Olive Durfey. Other schools were established in a few years. Most of the early settlers belonged to the Society of Friends and meetings for worship were instituted at an early date. These were held for some time at private houses until a log meeting house was built on a piece of land which was in 1860 the property of Hannah Brown. This branch of the Society of Friends was for many years in a flourishing condition. The members are now few in number, but continue to hold meetings for worship and for business. The first organization of the Society was July 16, 1801.

Franklin Henry Orvis, of the Equinox House, Manchester, Vt., said, December 18, 1895:

"There is a large family of Orvises at South Starksboro, Vt. D. H. Orvis is the postmaster there and is a merchant." "J. H. Orvis and Albert Orvis also live there."

In a letter from Detxer Erwin Orvis, dated Tiffin, Ohio, February 20, 1911, he says:

My great-grandfather, Samuel Orvis, was born in Connecticut in 1776, married Sallie Sage in 1800, and the same year moved with an ox team to what was then a wilderness, in the town of Champion, Jefferson County, N. Y. They cleared a small space, erected a log hut, living in their wagon in the meantime, and continued to live in same place for 76 years, during which time he became a prosperous farmer on land he cleared and cultivated by himself. He died in 1876, at the age of 100 years, less 12 days. His wife also died the same year, having lived together most happily as man and wife for 76 years. He was a man of most exemplary habits, and a life-long Methodist. He raised a large family both male and female. Perhaps the most prominent among them was his namesake, Rev. Samuel Orvis, who for many years was an honored member of the Black River Conference of Methodist Preachers. He was a man of unusual power in the pulpit. Another son was Elias Orvis, my grandfather, who died in 1840. Among the daughters was Mirinda, who married Levi Stoddard, and lived in the village of Copenhagen until she died in, I think, 1883. Almira married Lysander Van Brocklin and lived at the old homestead all her life. She was a remarkable woman, possessed of great literary ability and was a frequent and valued contributor to the newspapers and periodicals of her day. Another daughter, Sallie, was an invalid for many years and never married, but lived to ripe old age with her parents.

My father, Kendrick A. Orvis, is still living, at present at South Haven, Mich., although he considers Wheaton, Ill., his permanent home, where my brother, Wilbur, aged 41, also resides. My sister, Cornelia, aged 54, married A. R. Hotchkiss, and lives at South Haven, where she is very active in W. C. T. U. work, having been president of the district and local unions for many years. She has one son, Harold, aged 22 years, employed in a responsible position in a railway office in Kalamazoo, Mich.

My father had two brothers, Samuel E. and Alvah G. Samuel E. was a soldier in the Civil War and lost an arm in the Battle of the Wilderness. He died in Milwaukee, Wis., in, I think, 1900. Alvah G. was a railroad engineer on the Milwaukee, St. Paul and Chicago Railroad for over 45 years, residing at Madison, Wis., and died last year as a result of a railroad accident, the first serious one of his experience. He had the unique record of never having caused a death from accident to his trains during all that time. He has several sons and daughters living at or near Madison, Wis.

I am now in my 56th year and believe there are few of that age who can say they have never lost a member of their immediate family. My father, mother, sister and brother and all the children are living, not even a baby being lost by any of them or the wives of any. I have been married 33 years but have no children. A Samuel has been in the family for very many generations, the last of that name being my brother's son, born just before last Christmas.

So far as I know, no member of the Orvis family has ever brought disgrace upon the name, but on the other hand appear to be people of good habits and exceptional longevity.

He learned the printing trade, became a publisher, writer for the public press, both religious and secular; was an eloquent public speaker, a life-long member and minister of the Christian (sometimes called Campbellite) Church and became a lawyer of no mean ability. He was energetic in getting together data of the Orvis Family, but had the misfortune to lose all of his papers by fire. Because of his ministerial duties he lived in a great many places, among which were New London, Pa., Richmond, Va., King William Court House, Va., Lock Haven, Pa., Williamsport, Pa., Bloomsburg, Pa., Benton, Pa., and Mayfield, Ky. His first wife died at the home of her brother, Nathan Atwood, in Marsh Creek, Pa. His second wife died at Mayfield, Ky., and he died from a stroke of paralysis at or near Salisbury, N. C., and was buried at Rowan, N. C.

As before stated, Edward E. Orvis (my father), was much interested in the family history. A letter dated New London, Pa., Jan. 16, 1853, and addressed to Joseph U. Orvis, of New York City, asking for information concerning family matters, etc., is now in my possession, having been turned over to me by Edwin W. Orvis from his father's miscellaneous papers. How long before this date Edward E. was searching for names, dates, etc., I do not know.—F. W. O.

Was admitted to the bar at Lock Haven, Pa., in 1856. In 1861 enlisted as a volunteer in Col. Jarrett's Co., 11 Penna. Vol. Was in battle of Falling Waters. While in service was prostrated by sunstroke, thereby prevented from re-enlisting. In November, 1862, he moved to Bellefonte, Pa., where he resided till his death. In 1871 was elected a member of the Pennnsylvania Legislature and re-elected in 1873. In same year was Democratic candidate for Speaker of the House of Representatives. In 1873 was elected a Trustee of the Pennsylvania State College, a position retained by him till his death. In summer of 1873 he was appointed Law Judge of 25th Judicial District by Gov. Hartranft. In November, 1873, he was elected to same office. In 1877 he acted as Judge Advocate on staff of General James A. Beaver in the great railroad riots. In 1883 he was made President Judge of the 49th Judicial District, which office he resigned to resume active practice at the bar, which immediately became one of the largest in the State. At his death he was a recognized leader of the Pennsylvania bar.

For more complete biographical sketch see Encyclopedia of Contemporary Biography of Pennsylvania, Vol. III, page 245.

Orviston, Centre Co., Pa., was named in his honor. The family still have holdings there. His popularity among the people in his territory is shown by many fathers naming their children "Orvis" in his memory.

FRANKLIN HENRY ORVIS

Male Line: George[0]—Samuel[1]—Samuel[2]—William[3]—Waitstill[4]—Levi Church[5]—Franklin Henry[6]

It was in his father's store that Mr. Orvis obtained his early business education, but he also attended the common schools of the town, the Burr Seminary, and the Union Village Academy of Greenwich, N. Y., finishing at the latter in 1842, then being 18 years of age. The next two years were spent in Wisconsin and Illinois in mercantile pursuits, but in 1844 he went to New York City as a clerk in the wholesale dry goods house of Marsh & Willis, which position he held for about two years. In 1846 Mr. Orvis, in association with Elijah M. Carrington, formerly of Poultney, under the firm name of Carrington & Orvis, engaged in the business of wholesale dealing in dry goods, with which enterprise he was connected until about the year 1860, then retiring to give his entire attention to the hotel business.

In 1872, learning from some of the guests who had been in Florida that the winter climate there is fine but the hotels inferior, he decided to show the southerners how to keep a hotel, and took the management of the St. James in Jacksonville. The house was well patronized and he soon after purchased the Putnam House at Palatka, which he kept open during the winter seasons until it was burned in 1884. From 1881 till 1891 he also conducted the Windsor Hotel at Jacksonville, a house that gained the greatest popularity. Finding that increasing years made the Florida business too burdensome he gave it up, but not until he was regarded the pioneer of the winter hotel business in the South as he had been of the summer business in Vermont.

Franklin H. Orvis was a sturdy New Englander, a man of strong will, clear brain, bright mind, well defined ideas on public matters, a staunch Republican in politics, a capable business man, a hotel keeper of originality, rare skill and great sagacity; a good citizen, a kind and loving husband and a generous and just father. In his demise Vermont lost one of her best citizens and there was removed from the ranks of American hotel keepers one of the most unique, progressive and talented men who ever welcomed the coming and speeded the parting guest.

In early days he was a merchant at Racine, Wis., afterwards moved to Iowa, then to Chicago, where he became a member of the Board of Trade. Was a successful business man of good reputation.

CHARLES FREDERICK[6]—Born June 19, 1831, at Manchester, Vt. Died March 24, 1915. Married April 25, 1856, at Manchester, Vt., Laura Ellen (Walker), who died October 3, 1903.

In a letter received by the author about January 1, 1913, C. F. says: "Pardon me for not answering your previous letter, for I am a very busy man and 81 years old."

Both are buried in their family plot in Manchester, Vt. On the stone beneath the usual inscriptions of dates this line appears:
"And their love never faded."

Charles Frederick Orvis was born in Manchester, Vt., June 19, 1831, and died in his eighty-fourth year, March 24, 1915, at Manchester. He was known all of his life as an ardent and militant Democrat and his outspoken views earned him the sobriquet, among those who knew him, of the "Nestor of the Democrats of New England."

In 1855, he married Laura E. Walker and the same year was proprietor of the Equinox House, Manchester, which was founded by Orvises and conducted by successive generations down to the year 1921. Charles F. Orvis did not remain in the hotel business but about 1870 began the manufacture of fishing tackle and anglers' supplies, a business which grew to considerable proportions and is now conducted by his sons, Albert C. Orvis and Robert J. Orvis, at Manchester.

The death of Joseph Upham Orvis occurred after he and his wife had attended a wedding at Chattanooga, Tenn. Going from there to Florida for a rest he contracted a severe cold which ended fatally in a few days, and he died at Palatka, Fla. For over thirty years he had been closely identified with the commercial and financial interests of the county. He was born at Granville, Washington County, N. Y., and received a commercial education. He commenced business life at the age of sixteen, engaging in the dry goods business with an uncle, Levi Church Orvis, at Manchester, Vt., and ultimately became a member of the dry goods firm of Lockwood & Orvis, of Troy,

N. Y., with which business he was associated for twenty-three years. He was active in the establishment of the Mutual Bank of Troy, N. Y., becoming its vice-president and virtually its manager, also vice-president of the Troy Savings Bank and one of the founders of the Troy Building and Loan Association. On removing to the city of New York in 1854 he continued in the mercantile business, and in 1858 he took a prominent part in the organization of the Park Bank, of which he was one of the first directors, procuring by his personal influence a large portion of the first subscriptions to its capital stock. He continued an active director of the Park Bank until it had accumulated an ample surplus. In 1864 he projected and organized the Ninth National Bank of New York. He was president of the Ninth National Bank from 1864 to 1867 and during that time raised the deposits up to $20,000,000, having by his energy and talent in placing a large portion of the 7-30 Government Loan, obtained the confidence and co-operation of Mr. Chase and Mr. Fessenden as secretaries of the United States Treasury. Mr. Orvis rendered valuable service to the Government in its financial department at that critical period. At the convention of national banks in New York in October, 1864, he was appointed secretary and treasurer of their committee. On his retirement from the presidency of the Ninth National Bank he became manager for New York of the National Life Insurance Company of U. S. A.

He also served as director of the Standard and Resolute Fire Insurance Companies and was for some time chairman of the Finance Committee of the Union Dime Savings Bank, and also for a short period president of t he Security Bank. In 1872 Mr. Orvis established with his son, Charles Eustis, a private banking business in New York under the firm name of Joseph U. Orvis & Co., placing large loans for corporations and transacting an extensive business in commercial paper, railroad stocks and petroleum certificates. He visited England in the summer of 1873 to promote some financial negotiations and remained abroad until April of 1874. Although passing such an active life in business, Mr. Orvis was constantly engaged in promoting religious interests and benevolent institutions in the Protestant Episcopal Church. In private life he was an affable, courteous, intelligent, kindly gentlemen, highly esteemed by a large circle of friends.

Silas Orvis, son of Loren, taught school for four years at Ferrisburg, Vt. In June, 1821, he, with his brother, Eleazer, and one Nicholas Austin, went to Pickering, Ontario, and bought farms, built log houses and then went back to Vergennes, Vt., for their families in February, 1822. They left Ferrisburg February 5, 1822, at six a. m., crossed an ice bridge at Prescott and made the trip in five and one-half days to Pickering with a one horse team and a yoke of oxen. The ox sleigh was covered with tin. His son, Loren, was born on the 17th of the same month. The celebrated cane belonging to the Orvis family was supposed to descend to the oldest son. After Loren's death, in whose possession it then was, it was to go to Silas, his oldest son, but Silas was a Quaker and believing the cane was "the price of blood" would not accept it, as he did not believe in war. His son, Eleazer, died one week before his son, Eleazer, Jr., was born, and to the latter the cane was given.

He served in the Civil War in the 9th Battery, Indiana Light Artillery. Discharged May 13, 1865. He died of cancer at Union City, Ind., on the Ohio side.

He was a blacksmith and miller by trade and stood six feet "in his stockings."

She joined the Church of Christ at Pottsdam, St. Lawrence County, N. Y., in 1850 and was a consistent member for seventy-two years. She moved to Union City, Ind., July 10, 1867, and lived on Ward Street until four years before her death, when she went to reside with her grand-daughter, Mrs. John Henry Griffith. She was an invalid for several years, totally blind and unable to walk, but was always cheerful and was rational and active in mind up to the last moment. She had been a school teacher in Union City and knew its history well, having moved there when it contained only a few houses.

Mellie Griffith says her middle name was Rebeccah, but Mrs. S. V. Davis, her sister, says it was Ruth.

He is a prominent business man of Des Moines, Iowa; Senior Warden of the Episcopal Church, a "Stand Pat" Republican, and member of S. A. R.

CHARLES H.[6]—Born September 24, 1838, at Brookline, Vt. Died April 16, 1862.

He enlisted in August, 1861, in the Civil War and was immediately mustered into service in Company E, 1st Wisconsin Infantry and was sent to the Southland. He was not killed in battle, but died of pneumonia after being in the service about seven months, and was buried by his comrades by the light of the moon, at Mt. Pleasant, Tennessee. A seven-foot shaft to his memory stands in the cemetery at Oskaloosa, Iowa, erected by his loving mother. This was the same regiment in which John Jay served.

SAMUEL LEVI[6]—Born January 1, 1840, at Brooklin, Vt. Died February 31, 1921. Married November 4, 1866, Levina (Sanborn), at Wilmot, Kenosha County, Wis. Levina died May 10, 1918.

He enlisted in the Civil War during the summer of 1861. Served in the 1st Wisconsin Cavalry until the end of the war. He was Regimental Commissary Sergeant. Assisted in the capture of Jefferson Davis and received honorable mention from President Lincoln. He fought in the battles of Kenesaw Mountains and Lookout Mountains, as well as in other engagements during his three and one-half year service.

All of his seven children were born in the Township of Richmond, McHenry County, Ill. In 1883, they moved to Burton Township and always lived in the vicinity of Spring Grove, Ill.

He was a strong man. He was always a friend of the weak and helpless and believed in a good education, which he assisted others in obtaining.

JAMES RILEY⁵—Born May 21, 1820, at Columbia Flats, Pa. Died May 26, 1910, at Fayette, Iowa. Married October 28, 1850, at Pompey Hill, N. Y., Lucy (Heath), who was born September 12, 1829, at Frittenden, Kent County, England, and died December 9, 1907, at Fayette, Iowa.

His mother being of Scotch descent, he belonged to the Presbyterian Church. In 1844, he began teaching penmanship in New York. In 1846, he studied portrait painting in New York City. From a professor in Yale College, he learned the then new process of Deguerrotyping and from him also obtained an insight into chemistry. In 1850, he married as above and as a wedding tour they traveled over the State of New York in a photograph van, making portraits. As the art of photography developed, he mastered the processes of Ferrotype, Ambrotype, Porcelain Work and lastly the Photograph. In the late fifties he sold his car and moved to Belvidere, Ill., and then to Rockford, Ill., Springfield, Ill., and other points. He traveled through this and adjoining states, instructing photographers who were having trouble with their plates. In March, 1870, he located in Fayette, Iowa, and at that time was the best photographer in the state. There was no laboratory at that time in the Upper Iowa University and the president, McLean, would bring the students of his chemistry class one day each week to the gallary of Mr. Orvis to get his help in experimenting. He was a prominent Mason and held several offices in the local lodge. He died just four days after his ninetieth birthday. Buried in Grand View Cemetery, Fayette, Iowa. He was an enthusiastic genealogist and helped collect much of the history of the Orvis family. He was the oldest living photographer in 1910.

SIXTH GENERATION—NOTES

Judge John Holden Orvis, of Bellefonte, Centre County, Pa., was for many years recognized in Pennsylvania by the entire bar as unquestionably the ablest land lawyer in the state, but he was at the same time a very able and all around lawyer, almost irresistible in legal arguments because he was a natural lawyer as well as a profound student of the law. The fact is he thought law and his conclusions, based upon the elementary principles of human justice and rights, were necessarily correct.

REPRODUCTION OF AN OLD BUSINESS CARD—JOSEPH U. ORVIS ONE OF THE FIRM

It is said that Joseph U. Carried this card in his pocket for thirty years.

Mr. Orvis sold more than one-twentieth of the entire 7/30 U. S. Government Loan in Civil War times, and disbursed $81,452,000 of the public money—a huge trust. The largest sale of Government bonds made in one day—over $5,000,000—was effected by Mr. Orvis, and the largest sum ever paid over to the treasury at one time, $4,000,000 in greenbacks, he carried personally in a carriage. In May, 1865, his bank, the 9th National, held over $20,000,000 deposits, larger than ever before held by any bank.

The query has often been made: "How did the name 'Mills' get into our family?" The presumption is that it was married into it, but so far I have found no official record of that fact, though I have written to several bearing that name, as: John Mills Orvis, of Des Moines, Iowa, and John Mills Orvis, of Missoula, Montana, the latter having a son of that name.

It is quite common for a wife to perpetuate her family name by giving one or more of her children as a first or middle name that of her own family. Waitstill Orvis married Elizabeth Church and now we have "Church" for a given name: Levi Church Orvis, Edwin Church Orvis, etc. It is easy, therefore, to determine how "Church" became a given name in our family and the facts are well known to many of us. It is not so well known, however, that "Orvis" is a given name in the Church family. In May of 1914, the writer saw an obituary notice in a daily paper with that name. Upon writing to the address given the following answer was received:

I was named after my father, who in turn was named after a minister in Northern New York State, Doctor Samuel Orvis. This is about the only information that I can give you on the subject. If I can give you any more, I shall be very glad to do so.

Very truly yours,

Middle name is "Orvis." SAMUEL O. CHURCH.

Waukesha, Wis., August 1, 1877.

(Extract from local paper, above date.)

We observe some improvements and repairs on the place of Mr. S. E. Orvis, who, with his family contemplate an Eastern trip, having leased their home on Main street to Mr. D. H. Bullard. Mr. Orvis intends spending most of his absence in the counties of Jefferson and Lewis, N. Y., where a large circle of relatives and friends reside. Not the least among them, but a central object of veneration and esteem is Mr. Samuel Orvis, Sr., now in his 100th year, who but a little over three years ago, followed to her peaceful repose, the companion of his youth, in her 92d year. She was laid to rest beside four of the seven offsprings buried in the little ceremtery on the hill of Copenhagen, Lewis County, N. Y. Among them is the Rev. Samuel Orvis, of Black River Conference of M. E. Churches, who died 30 years ago.

Mr. Orvis intends visiting at Cleveland, Ohio, the scene of his last labors, and death of his father, Elias Orvis, who was the first son of the above veterans to depart from this life.

Only two sisters of theirs survive to cheer this old pioneer of New York. He was born at Norfork, Conn., January 26, 1778, and is a great grand-son of Roger Orvis, who for efficient service in defense of the Colonies of New England was presented with a silver headed cane by the then reigning King of England. This cane bore a variety of characteristic inscriptions in token of recognition of such service against such as King Philip and his followers in the "Nutmeg State," when the Knights of the Tomahawk and scalping-knife held absolute sway. Our venerable grandsire served in the war of 1812 and '13; he is still a resident of Champion, Jefferson County, N. Y.

Later: Died at his late residence January 14, 1878, Samuel Orvis, aged 99 years, 11 months and 18 days. Deceased was born at Norfork, Conn. (Litchfield County), January 26, 1778.. He was married in 1806, settled on the present above named farm in 1814.

John Mills Orvis says:

I was born in Brattleboro, Vt., December 9, 1835. When three years old family moved to Bangor, Franklin County, N. Y. When 12 years old I left home to live with S. J. Dewey, a merchant in Waddington, St. Lawrence County, N. Y. This man purchased dry goods from Lockwood and Orvis in Troy. Joseph U. Orvis was of this firm. He got the place for me. I was there with him 8 years. After lived in Ogdensburgh, where I was when married to Arletta C. Northrup, October 26, 1858. She died in Des Moines May 6, 1911; is buried in my lot as father is.

In fall of 1866 we moved from Waddington, N. Y., to Oskaloosa, Iowa. In September, 1883, moved to Des Moines, Iowa.

I have spent my life in mercantile business and now have a stock of goods in my own store room in the suburbs of this city, formerly called North Des Moines, now united into one city. I have lived to see the wonderful improvements in all branches made in the United States—railroads first built in 1833—the balance built in my time. I have been a close student of my business and not much of a traveler. Not much time spent visiting with relatives, therefore not well known by them. I had a good wife—we enjoyed local friends and had a goodly number wherever we lived. I lived from the parental home from 12 years old; paddled by own canoe. I have made and saved money enough to have given my wife all necessary care as an invalid for about 7 years, and have enough to provide for my independence, all of which is a great satisfaction to me.

A tribute to Bethiah (Selleck) Orvis, from The Waterford Post:

Back in the scroll of time almost one hundred years, only three and a third centuries after Christopher Columbus caught his first glimpse of the new world, one hundred ninety-six years after the Mayflower landed, just after John Quincy Adams took the oath of office of President of the United States, less than half a century after the great liberty bell rang out our independence, long before the war with Mexico, and long, long before the great armed conflict between the blue and the grey, on the busy commercial highway leading past the great Canadian cities, Quebec and Montreal, at the little town of Prescott, overlooking the charming thousand islands placed like jewels in the majestic St. Lawrence where Ireland's sweet poet, Thomas Moore, wrote:

"Faintly as tolls the evening chime,
Our voices keep tune and our oars keep time."

* * * * * *

"Utawas' tide! this trembling moon
Shall see us float over thy surges soon.
Saint of this green isle! hear our prayers,
Oh! grant us cool heavens and favoring airs,
Blow, breezes, blow, the stream runs fast,
The rapids are near, and the daylight's past"— in her ancestral dwelling—still standing—there was born on April 30, 1826, Bethiah Selleck Orvis. Her mother, Eliza, first married Alson Benedict at Hubbardtown, Vt., and after his weath, Ira Selleck.

There were eleven children in both families, all of whom were remembered in her last hours here, she stating that she was the "Last Mohican," "The Last Leaf," having long outlived the others.

In early days her parents moved to Ogdensburg, N. Y., and later in the territorial days when the now great and matchless state of Wisconsin was forming, she came with her sister Eliza (Mrs. Albert Barber) to Salem, Kenosha County. At that time there were but five houses in the entire town. Her sister, Adelaide, came west later and married James Van Wie, of Rockford, Ill.

On January 24, 1856, she married Charles Waitstill Orvis, he having gone to California with a yoke of oxen at the time of the great gold discovery. He was born November 19, 1816, at Brattleboro, Vt., and died at Salem November 12, 1882.

To them were born seven children, all living, viz.: John Mills Orvis, of Missoula, Mont. (married Margaret Clowes, of Darien, Wisconsin; their children being Ethel L. Reinhard, Helen Joy Orvis and John Mills Orvis).

Adelaide Mary Cooper, wife of Hugh Cooper, of Waterford, Wis.

Charles Seymour Orvis, of Hamilton, Mont. (married Ada Stevens Wells, of Joliet, Ill).

Flora Bethiah Orvis, who remained her mother's constant and devoted companion, caring for her lovingly and tenderly through all the years.

Harry Franklin Orvis, of Camp Lake, Wis. (married Jennie E. Hammond, of Burlington, Wis., their children being Evelyn M., Lucile D., Verna B. and Charles Wesley).

Levi C. Orvis, who also remained with his mother on the old Center Lake farm in Salem township.

Justin K. Orvis, formerly of Waukegan, now of Chicago, Ill.

As a girl she was pretty, in old age beautiful; she was always thoughtful and generous; though of slight build, she was wonderfully strong and active; her eyes were bright and shone with a light "that was never seen on land or sea," the light that never dies. Life left her as gently and peacefully as she had lived, passing out in her old home at Camp Lake farm, March 31, 1915, like one who lies down to pleasant dreams. She had many, many friends, possessed a wonderful memory, loved animals, flowers, birds, humanity and music; was endowed with a rich and beautiful alto voice.

She did her part and more in helping to build up the country; like all other brave pioneers who carved their homes from the forest, she left a monument to her and their memory more useful and lasting than granite shaft or radiant marble, in the shape of a greater civilization, schools and other advantages denied to them, but since the heritage of later generations. It is not their lot "just to be known and then forgot"; her and their influence is a reality that never passes into oblivion, but is a power forever exerting good that will last as long as springs gush, rills sing, rivers flow and flowers bloom, till time shall be no more.

Though bound in no creed or dogma, she was deeply religious in the broader sense, recognizing in man his superiority and excellence, with no bounds for the soul's progress she ever searched for the greater light that leads onward and upward a complete unity with God as a universal spirit in all nature and not as a separate entity or being; that great light she more and more approximated as the years rolled on.

"As wider skies broke on her view,
God greatened in her growing mind:
Each year she dreamed her God anew,
And left her older God behind.
She saw the boundless scheme dilate
In star and blossom, sky and clod;
And as the universe grew great
She dreamed for it a greater God."

Ever a searcher for truth she learned to understand that "there is no death, the stars go down to shine upon some fairer shore, and bright in heaven's jeweled crown they shine forever more."

Her relatives and friends saw her for the last time in the beautiful, old-fashion tan silk dress she sweetly worn when almost sixty years ago she donned it as a bride.

Liberty cemetery, where rest the ashes of her parents and husband, claimed the earthly temple of her soul on Golden Easter day, like that other Easter whose lambiant dawn opened on Him who prayed in Gethsemane and trod the Galileean shore, wherein he proved to the world that perfect love conquers all things.

On this Easter day, the resurrection of the year, a symbol and foregleam of the resurrection of her great and loving soul, amid a multitude of those who loved her and beneath a wilderness of flowers her ashes were tenderly laid away in the bosom of the earth she loved so well.

It is fitting that the wasted temple of her whose soul was love and beauty and harmony and music should find its resting place as the buds were bursting into new life amid the beauties and symphonies of the opening year.

To her let us not say "good night," but turn our eyes to the breaking dawn.

Edward Church Orvis, in a letter to Justin K. Orvis, dated Manchester, Vt., January 24, 1911, says:

John Mills Orvis was born in Hinsdale (which, by the way, is in New Hampshire, just across the Connecticut River from Brattleboro). Perhaps Waitstill at one time lived in Hinsdale or possibly the Churches lived there and your grandfather was born there, the same as the writer was born in Whitinsville, Mass., where his grandparents on his mother's side lived—while his father's mother lived here at Manchester. You undoubtedly have E. W. Orvis' book or genealogy for you seem to have some of the same data. Perhaps you have E. E. Orvis' book as well. I have both and want a copy of the one Mr. Rhamy is getting up when issued.

Waitstill Orvis was what was then called an "Esquire of the Peace" and was known as Squire Orvis and was more than an ordinary man. The old Town Clerk in Brattleboro (Mr. Newton) told me two or three years ago that he remembered Waitstill when he, Newton, was a small boy and that he was a good deal of a man and well thought of by people of Brattleboro. I found his stone in the West Brattleboro Cemetery as well as his wife's, Elizabeth Church and his mother, Elizabeth, relict of William. I have his old "Vermont Statutes" published about 1800 and with his name, presumably written by himself in it. I also have some letters he and his wife wrote to my grandfather, L. C. O. I have some of the commissions of Levi C. Orvis as postmaster at Manchester and as Ensign and Lieutenant and as Major and Aide on General Roberts' staff in the Vermont Militia. Levi Church Orvis died of cholera in Philadelphia in 1849 before the days of railroads. He used to like to travel in stage coach times on Friday as there was more room that day.

He kept a general store and was postmaster and dealt in marble, which was largely shipped to Philadelphia via wagon to Troy, N. Y. My father was Franklin Henry Orvis, born July 12, 1824, and married Sarah Maria Whitin, of Whitinsville, Mass., November 17, 1852, and had six sons. All of us boys except Louis (and in a way I may say he has, too), have been connected with father in the hotel business—Equinox House, Manchester; Spingler House, New York City; St. James Hotel, Jacksonville, Florida, in 1872-3; Putnam House, Palatka, Florida, 1875 to 1884 inclusive; Windsor Hotel, Jacksonville, Florida, 1880 to 1891, and self and W. F. O. had the New Putnam, Palatka, Florida, 1889 to 1891, and after father's death I ran the Equinox as manager for the family, till spring of 1909. My brother, George, bought the others out and is now the practical owner, though it was incorporated in 1902 as Equinox Company. The Equinox House was started in a small way in 1853 and we have all the registers from 1854 to the present day. It has always been a prominent summer resort and the registers are full of names of old New York families (both city and state). It is now one of the principal stopping places on the Ideal Tour for automobiles, and where the business used to be largely permanent now more than half the travel is transient and autos fill the street at all times of the day. The arrivals and departures run 50 to over 100 per day all summer and hotel can accommodate 250 or 275 and last summer had over 300 during the rush. Manchester has become the center of summer golf from having the links of the Ekwanok Country Club's finest summer resort golf links in the U. S. and patronized by all the crack players.

In looking around last night I found a copy of the Waitstill Orvis family Bible record sent to my father by Mary Orvis Curtis, of Silverlake, Wis. (she was a daughter of John Orvis), and it says all of Waitstill's children except Simeon and Levi were born in Hinsdale, Vt., now Hinsdale is in New Hampshire, but there was a time when Vermont (an independent state then) annexed part of New Hampshire and part of New York (that is, broadened out at the south end), and with the consent of those living in that part of New Hampshire and New York. It must have been during the time that Hinsdale was a part of Vermont that those children were born. I also looked in the roll of Vermont soldiers in the Revolutionary War when I went to our library yesterday afternoon and found in Capt. Blakeslee's company, Weightstill Orvis, an Ensign in the company. Spelled differently, but undoubtedly the same man. He, himself, spelled it Waitstill.

F. H. Orvis was Senator from Bennington County in 1868 and 1869 and again in 1892 and 1893.

Paul W. Orvis represented the town of Manchester in the Legislature of 1894-95.

Edward C. (self) represented town 1890-91, and was Senator 1908-09 (we have biennial sessions since 1870).

I have held all the town offices for the family, having been first selectman for six or seven years back in the century passed, and since that time have been one of the auditors of the town and since the village of Manchester was incorporated in 1900 have been chairman of Board of Trustees with title of President of Village (rather high sounding for a plain man) and am such at present time.

As Samuel and William are on the lists as having fought in Colonial Wars from Northfield, Mass., there is a chance for our girls to join the Colonial Dames and boys the Society of Colonial Wars, and if as the story goes, Elizabeth was a descendent of John Church (Captain), who killed King Philip, the Indian, then on that line we go back to Indian fighting and guess there have been some "Indians" among those of the Orvis name. My father told me that an old sea captain came in to see him when he was in business in New York and said there were lots of people named Orviss in the island of Jersey and probably of Welsh parentage. I suppose you have heard of the cane given some Orvis. I never saw the cane or anyone who has seen it and my father thought it was a good story and that's all. I hope you can run across it.

Very truly,

E. C. ORVIS.

ALMIRA[7]

SAMUEL EMERY[7]—Born July 11, 1834, at Denmark, Lewis County, N. Y. Died May 24, 1887. Married November 26, 1854, at Waukesha, Wis., Eleanor (Campbell), who was born November 4, 1828, at Clayton, Jefferson County, N. Y., and died May 16, 1911.

Soon after the marriage he became a resident of Waukesha, Wis., and except for three or four years, this continued to be his home up to the time of this death.

He participated in the Civil War, serving as a private in Company F, 5th Wisconsin Volunteers, Infantry, and lost his left arm in the battle of the Wilderness. In Love's History of the War of the Rebellion (1866) at page 980, it says: "Samuel E. Orvis, of Company F, 5th Regiment, came out of a storm of bullets, at the battle of the Wilderness with a shattered arm, whose broken bones grated as it swung by his side, and walked more than a mile rather than take the place in an ambulance that some more needy one might want."

He was an indefatigable worker and it was often said of him that he could do more work with one arm than the average man would with two. As an evidence of this (being a carpenter by trade in his younger days), he built the family home in his disabled condition, with but very little assistance.

He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, very devout and and strictly temperate, never having used liquor or tobacco in any form.

ALVAH GUVERIA[7]—Born September 8, 1836, at Copenhagen, N. Y. Married (1) Frances M. (Ten Eyck) September 8, 1858, at Waukesha, Wis. She died February 25, 1859, at Waukesha, Wis.; (2) Emma Laura (Olin) September 25, 1861, at Waukesha, Wis., who was born July 13, 1843, at Homer, N. Y., and died November 19, 1917, in Madison, Wis., at the age of seventy-three.

Alvah Guveria Orvis left home when he was 17 years of age and hired out as a laborer for the C. M. & St. P. Ry. in the employ of which company he continued until his retirement occasioned by the loss of a leg in a collision while on duty. In point of service he was the oldest passenger locomotive engineer on that line at that time.

Early in 1863 when the first night express train was put on the Prairie du Chien Division of the Milwaukee Railroad, he qualified and took charge of it as engineer. He was a member of the Masonic Order, a very faithful church-goer, being a member of the Congregational Church.

He was a genial, whole-souled man—a much traveled and very interesting talker. He was a frequent visitor at the home of the author of this book.

(From the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, April 8, 1920):

John Jay Orvis, 80 years old, of 1281 Bergen Street, Civil War veteran, organizer of banking institutions, and founder of one of the largest agricultural implement concerns in the world, died yesterday of the ailments of old age. His funeral services will be held on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the Rev. Dr. Walter I. Southerton officiating, and cremation will follow at the U. S. Crematory, in Middle Village, L. I. Mr. Orvis is survived by a daughter, Mrs. William D. Scott, of Brooklyn, and a son, Dr. Ralph T. Orvis, U. S. N., stationed at the Naval recruiting office in Manhattan.

Mr. Orvis was born in Hamilton, Ont., on December 17, 1839, the son of Isaac and Amy Orvis, of Wisconsin. He enlisted for the Civil War in the 1st Regiment of Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry, and served three years, fighting in all the battles in which that regiment was engaged, except for three months when he was a prisoner in old Libby prison and the Andersonville prison, after he was captured by the rebels while fighting at Gettysburg.

After the war Mr. Orvis returned to Wisconsin and became a salesman for manufacturers of agricultural implements. He conceived the idea of amalgamating several companies, raised capital, and formed a large combintion, which is now known as the J. I. Case Implement Company, Mr. Orvis having sold his interests to J. I. Case about thirty years ago.

Mr. Orvis next turned his activities to organizing building and loan institutions, and started many successful ones in Western States, being the president of each in turn until it was a going institution, when he resigned and started another. Among them was the first building and loan association organized in Cuba, and still doing a thriving business.

Mr. Orvis lived formerly for many years in cities in California, and was a member of a Grand Army post at San Jose. He was also a member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. He retired from business eighteen years ago, and had lived in Brooklyn the past six years.

business enterprises in Severy and Topeka. In 1895 he sold out his interests and removed to New Market, Ontario. A relative wrote in 1911 that he fell on an icy sidewalk and died from the effects, but the matter is described in a newspaper clipping as follows:

"Severy, Kansas, December 6, 1895.—The mystery surrounding the death of Wm. H. Orvis, a Canadian capitalist, who was found dead in his room here November 28, 1895, deepens, and the theory of foul play is accepted by many. Mr. Orvis was about to board a train on his way to Boston about three months ago when he was sand-bagged by unknown parties and robbed of $6000 in Government Bonds and $600 in cash. He recovered the bonds through the agency of unknown parties by paying $150 in cash in Kansas City, Mo. It is now believed that he was murdered in order to prevent the exposure of the parties who robbed him. His home was in New Market, Ontario."

ELEAZER[7]—Born October 2, 1820, at Whitby or Pickering, Ontario. Died April 12, 1853, at Oakfield, Wis. Married Emeline W. (Warner).

He was a farmer and moved from Ontario and settled in Oakfield, Fond-du-Lac County, Wis., near the home of Isaac Orvis, about 1847.

After Eleazer's death his wife married (2) James Cornell and lived in California.

SELAH[7]—Born February 4, 1826, at Pickering, Ontario. Died June 18, 1911. Married (1) February 4, 1854, Elizabeth (Proctor), who was born in England December 11, 1835, and died July 13, 1876. Married (2) June 19, 1877, Mary (Rankin), who was born in Glasgow, Scotland, February 10, 1846.

Selah lived in Whitby, Ont., but lived for a while at Oakfield, Wis., where he worked at his trade, that of a carpenter; also worked in a saw mill. After three years he returned to Canada in 1850 and worked at his trade there. About this time he rented 100 acres of land from E. B. Orvis and worked it, as he was also a farmer.

It is said that he had four toes on his left foot, one of which had three nails. He was the seventh child of his parents. His sister, the fourteenth child, had exactly the same deformity, and one of Selah's grand-children also has the same peculiarity on the left foot. During the last two years of his life he was nearly blind from cataract, as was also his father.

August 3, 1921.

Mr. Francis W. Orvis,
189 Stanley Place, Hackensack, N. J.

Dear Sir:—Several months ago I saw a man named Thomas A. Orvis, about 35 years old. He was on his way from Fort Smith, Arkansas, to Grand Forks, North Dakota, where he said he was employed as a landscape gardener for the University of North Dakota.

He was born near Dublin, Ireland, where his ancestors had resided for several hundred years.

His father is still living near Dublin and is a dairy man.

He claimed that several hundred years ago his first ancestor of whom he had any knowledge came from Barcelona, Spain, to Ireland. He said there is a stone monument at Barcelona, Spain, on which is cut the names of several who went from there to Ireland and among those names is that of John Orvis, his earliest known ancestor. He claimed to have lived in the United States for six years, as I remember it.

Yours truly, A. H. ORVIS.

(Immediately upon receipt of this letter from A. H. Orvis, I wrote to both Thomas A. and his father in Dublin. In both cases the letters were returned to me marked by postmaster: "Not found."—F. W. O.)

Later I wrote to the U. S. Consul at Barcelona, Spain, and received the following letter from him:

Barcelona, Spain, March 2, 1922.

Francis Wayland Orvis, Esquire,
189 Stanley Place,
Hackensack, New Jersey.

Sir:—Referring to your letter of February 5, 1922, in regard to one John Orvis, who is alleged to have emigrated from Barcelona to Ireland about three hundred years ago, I have to advise you that upon consultation with the Director of Monuments of this Province I am informed that there is no monument nor any shaft or slab announcing the departure of emigrants from Barcelona to Ireland.

The name Orvis does not look Spanish or Catalan at all and I have not been able to find in the directory any person or family bearing that name.

There is a firm called "Orbis," but they advise me that this is a Latin name which means "city" and that they do not know of any persons bearing such name.

Very respectfully yours,

W. M. O'HARA,
American Vice-Consul in Charge.

He was a bookkeeper and manager for R. Pendleton at San Antonio, Texas, where he died in 1916.

From a San Antonio, Texas, paper:

R. W. Orvis, 73 years old, a veteran of the Union army and an elder of the Central Christian Church, died at 9:55 o'clock Saturday morning at his desidence, 603 West Mistletoe avenue following an apoplectic stroke last Wednesday morning. Following the attack Mr. Orvis remained unconscious, and friends and relatives gave up hope for his recovery Saturday morning.

In the course of his twenty-one years' residence here, Mr. Orvis had not missed more than one or two services at the Central Christian Church. He was at one time superintendent of the Sunday School and always conducted a Sunday School class. For many years Mr. Orvis was connected with the Pendleton Grain Company.

He came here from Colorado, where he was engaged in church work for a number of years. He is survived by his widow and one daughter, Miss Eva, both of San Antonio; three brothers, O. A. Orvis, of St. Louis, Mo., F. L. and W. L. Orvis, of Kansas City, Mo., and three sisters, Mrs. Laura Miller, of Ohio, Mrs. Pearl Williams, of Kansas City, and Mrs. Nell Dix, of Idaho. SEVENTH GENERATION—NOTES

From a letter written October 2, 1913, by Francis B. Orvis, then living at 1091 Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn, N. Y.:

My father, Joseph Emerson Orvis, died the year I was born and I left Massena when four years old with my mother, who had married again. She married Mr. E. J. Smith. I have lived in Malone, N. Y., Plattsburg, N. Y., Pontiac, Oakland Co., Mich. Attended the Olivet College Preparatory, Olivet, Mich., and graduated from Amherst College, Amherst, Mass., in 1899. My mother, Alice Caroline Stevens (now Mrs. E. J. Smith), lives in Romeo, Mich. She was born in Fort Covington, N. Y., and was in the first graduating class of Pottsdam Normal; was the first government teacher of the St. Regis Indians. My father met her when teaching school in Massena. He continued the many interests of his father, Col. Uriel H. Orvis, traveling much and I believe was known to many of the Orvises in your "Outlines." He came to New York and Boston each year on business and owned a large tract of land in Minnesota or Wisconsin and frequently went West on that account. He went to California when the overland route was opened and returned by way of the Panama Isthmus, a trip of many peculiar adventures. He died in middle age, suddenly of typhoid.

My grand-uncle, Frederick Orvis, lived in Waddington, N. Y., and I think he is buried there. I never knew he had any children. There was a David Orvis, my uncle, who was in New York a few years, studying law, but his health failed and he returned to Massena. He ran for Assembly, but died before election day. He was well-known, being of a very attractive and sociable disposition.

Gad Orvis had one daughter who married Mr. John P. Squire, of Boston. I think they had a son named John P. Squire. Another daughter married a Mr. Kimball, of Boston. They had one son named Washington Kimball.

Family report is that my great-grandfather, David Orvis, of Windsor, Vt., was a soldier in the Revolution, but the records of Vermont are incomplete. There were two companies of militia from Columbia County, Vt. The names of all the enlisted men of one—Hatch's Company—were destroyed by fire.

This is the holder of the famous cane and lived at Pilkington, Va., Payne's Siding, 25 miles from Richmond on the Southern R. R., where he removed from Oakfield, Fond-du-Lac County, Wis. E. H. Orvis says this of the cane:

"The cane is of some kind of cane nearly 1½ inches in diameter, has a silver band, also a large ivory head, which shows that it is old, as it is yellow and badly checked. It was given to an Orvis for some valorous deed in the army. There was a silver chain and medal on the cane giving an account of who gave it, to whom it was given, and what for, but I never saw that. There was also a gun and sword given, also some kind of parchment, describing it, but I do not know where they are, but several years ago there was an Orvis living in Connecticut who had read them, and had seen the gun and sword, but I have forgotten his address."

Jennie I. (Bristol) Orvis was murdered May 31, 1908. (See Notes.)

Eleazer was a farmer and fancy poultry raiser. Removed to Fond-du-Lac, where he now lives.

EIGHTH GENERATION—NOTES

DEATH OF MRS. ELEAZER H. ORVIS

(From local paper of June 1, 1908)

While attending services at the Methodist church in Oakfield, Wis., May 31, 1908, Grant Poole, age about 35 years, shot and killed Mrs. E. H. Orvis, a leading resident of the village.

Rev. Sabin Halsey had completed the services by pronouncing the benediction and went to the vestibule door to shake hands with the members of the congregation as they left the church.

Poole occupied a pew in the church directly in front of Mrs. Orvis and followed her to the door.

Mrs. Orvis was about to shake hands with Rev. Halsey when Poole pulled a revolver, firing three shots in rapid succession, one bullet entering the heart, causing almost instant death. Mrs. Orvis fell back into the arms of her husband. Poole submitted to arrest.

Mr. Halsey asked the congregation to remain and offer prayer for the dying woman. The congregation was, however, panic stricken and fled from the church in haste. The pastor remained and prayed over the body.

For some time Poole has been trying to win the affections of Miss Grace Orvis, 25 years old. It is reported that the parents informed Poole of their objections to his actions toward their daughter and it is presumed that this was the cause of the deed.

UNIDENTIFIED FAMILIES

I have no male line of this family back of Eber, but the date of his birth would indicate that he was of the Fifth Generation.

Children of (——?——) and (——?——) Orvis

EBER—Born August 28, 1790, at Norfolk, Conn. Died July 25, 1856. Married February 13, 1817, Elcy (Clark), who was born January 20, 1794, and died December 28, 1846.

ABRAHAM—Brother of Eber.

Information given by Daniel Hopkins Orvis, of Hornell, N. Y. He told me that he thought the father of Eber was David, but was not true. Eber Orvis lived in Groton, Tompkins County, N. Y., and all of his children were born there. The family later moved to Steuben County. Eber is said to have been a soldier in the War of 1812. A brother of Eber is said to have settled in Pennsylvania about 1817, which was about the time Eber settled in Tompkins County, N. Y.

Children of Eber Orvis and Elcy (Clark)

Male Line: Eber (No authentic Male Line back of Eber)

HIRAM—Born January 20, 1818, at Groton, Tompkins County, N. Y. Died July 12, 1901.

MARY—Born October 2, 1918, at Groton, Tompkins County, N. Y. Died January 20, 1844.

MARTHA—Born May 9, 1822, at Groton, Tompkins County, N. Y. Died July 6, 1855.

DAVID—Born February 15, 1825, at Groton, Tompkins County, N. Y. Died December 10, 1903.

David was called "North," a pet name given him by the family of David F. Fellows, with whom he lived. Fellows married a Hannah Orvis, whose identity I have been unable to trace.

David was a good scholar.

CLARK—Born November 1, 1827, at Groton, Tompkins County, N. Y. Died March 19, 1901. Married Lydia M. H. (Holley).

Lived in Elmira and Blue Anchor, N. Y.

DANIEL HOPKINS—Born January 16, 1830, at Groton, Tompkins County, N. Y. Married January 13, ? at Hartsville, Steuben County, N. Y., Dordania Washburn (Kennedy), who died in 1907 or 1908.

He was living in Hornell, Steuben County, N. Y., in 1916, but has since died.

WILLIAM R.—Born October 13, 1831, at Groton, Tompkins County, N. Y. Married Martha A. (Babcock).

Lived in Alfred, N. Y.

JAMES CLARK—Born July 8, 1835, at Groton, Tompkins County, N. Y. Died in 1913.

SCOTT'S MODERN CARAVAN (Continued)

Mr. William D. Scott and Family in Caravan Costume

(William D. Scott, of Scott's Modern Caravan fame, married Mary Louise (Orvis), daughter of John Jay Orvis. See pages 95 and 161.)

A tired business man's dream of a quiet home of independence and freedom "Out where the West begins" was the germ of an idea that later transported 28 families more than 3000 miles across the continent from their city homes in Brooklyn, New York, to snug little 40-acre farms near Buhl, Idaho.

When Mr. W. D. Scott, of Brooklyn, first confided to a friend his determination to give up the nothingness of the big city to seek a home in the West, little did he dream that a few months later he would be sponsoring a modern automobile caravan of nearly 100 men, women and children in their migration from the city back to the soil.

The continued demands of friends who had heard of Mr. Scott's idea were responsible for the organizing of the caravan. After correspondence with officials in various western states Mr. Scott was attracted to an irrigated tract of about 5000 acres near Buhl, Idaho, which he later visited and took an option on for the prospective settlers.

So many people were attracted by the novelty of the caravan idea that many applicants were of necessity turned away. Those were selected for the first section who seemed best adapted to the pioneering work ahead of them and who appeared financially able to carry it through to a successful conclusion.

After the thousands of details incident to a new project of this kind (the first in the history of the country) were arranged, the 3124-mile trip across nine states began, and eight weeks later the modern homesteaders, 28 families in all, reached their objective, Buhl, Idaho. Every man, woman and child who left with the caravan came through to the end of the journey, a record seldom, if ever, equalled in the history of caravans.

At exactly 12 o'clock on the 28th day of July, 1921, Hon. Edward C. Riegelmann, Borough President of Brooklyn, New York, officially started Scott's Modern Caravan from Borough Hall steps, Brooklyn. Crossing the Brooklyn Bridge at 1 o'clock the caravaners were bidden Godspeed on the City Hall steps of Greater New York by the Mayor, Hon. John F. Hylan, and thence under escort of the New York Motorcycle Police were conducted through Fifth Avenue and Broadway to Yonkers, New York, where they began their long journey across the continent.

The caravan attracted so much attention along the way that huge crowds were present to greet the pilgrims at every stop. In nearly every city the Mayor, members of the Council, Chamber of Commerce, Commercial Club, Rotary, Kiwanis and other Club members were on hand to welcome and entertain them with banquets, dinners, special movies, concerts, dances, etc. Space in city parks was roped off and police protection provided during the caravan's stay, free firewood furnished, and as soon as the caravan arrived, merchants were on hand to furnish food supplies at prevailing prices.

The first official reception of note was at Schenectady, N. Y. Under the direction of Mayor Hon. Edward C. Lunn of that city the travelers were welcomed with a parade through the city, two band concerts arranged for them, special movies taken of the caravan and, what was most appreciated, the city's corps of auto mechanics went over every car and truck in the party during their stay in the city.

Similar hospitality was shown all along the route. At Niagara Falls the caravaners were given the freedom of the city and enjoyed all the attractions connected with the Falls without cost. No tolls were charged for crossing the Mississippi and Missouri river bridges. At Yellowstone Park, for the first time in history, the admission charge was lifted and the caravan passed through the entire park without charge.

The scenic wonders encountered on the trip provided an education that the caravaners will never forget and furnished thrills that lasted to the last day of the journey. Yellowstone Park, with all its wonders, Hanson Bridge, the highest suspension bridge in the world, Shoshone Falls, the highest falls in the United States, and the crossing of the massive Rockies, all beggar description.

From the moment the Idaho state line was reached on September 18 till the end of the journey, 3 days later, the excitement was intense. Every town strove to outdo its neighbors in extending hospitality to the newcomers. In Pocatello the whole caravan was taken to the Bannock Hotel and a room with bath provided for each member, the first time the caravan had stopped in a hotel since leaving Brooklyn.

The arrival in Buhl, September 21, just 8 weeks after the journey started, was an appropriate climax to the epoch-making trek across the states. Every home in Buhl displayed an American flag, and over a mile of school children lined both sides of the pavement, each child carrying an American flag. For Buhl it was a gala day with 25000 people (10 times the town's population) on hand to welcome the new neighbors in true western fashion.

No sooner had the new settlers unlimbered themselves after their journey than they started for their new ranches, where each caravaner was assisted in building his home by a committee of business men from Buhl. Next in order came the clearing of the sagebrush and construction of outbuildings for chickens, pigs, cattle and horses. These improvements are practically completed and at the present time the former city dwellers are busy in their fields with discs, harrows, seeders and drills, putting in the crop which they expect to bring them the independence and contentment they came 3000 miles to find.

The conclusion of the 3124-mile journey of the First Section of Scott's Modern Caravan marks it as one of the most unique events in modern history.

A most significant fact in connection with the caravan is the improved health of the caravaners. A few weeks on the trip changed tired, nervous, pale-faced individuals to pictures of ruddy health. Aside from a few slight colds, there was no sickness on the trip, nor has a doctor had to be called since the arrival of the colony at Buhl.

Each place of business displayed a large banner reading, "Welcome Caravaners, We Are From Iowa," or the name of the owner's native state. Thus the Caravaners were made to feel they were among friends, who had come from the East just as they had.

MISCELLANEOUS NOTES

(Letter from Ambrose Orvis to His Nephew, Josephus Orvis)

The original of this letter is now in the possession of Miss Florence Adams Chase, of Chicago, Ill., a descendant of Josephus Orvis and Hannah (Whitney) (Campbell).

Forks of the Cattaraugus Creek, Village of Arcade,
Town of China and County of Genesee.
July 1, 1839.

Dear Sir:

You and I now live far distant from each other, and it is very seldom that I hear anything of you, yet I have a lively remembrance of you and all yours, and would rejoice to see you all. But it has pleased GOD in his allwise providence to keep me in the far West. I have heard of the death of your father and mother, and many others with whom I was once acquainted. I was desirous to come to Vermont this year. But the very long lapse of time—forty years—since I was there made it probable that I should not find anyone that ever knew me or I them. I therefore thought it best to write and see whether my old friends were all gone to their long home.

I am now 81 years and 6 months old. Yet my memory is bright and strong, never more so at any time of my life. I remember my birthday at 3 years old, and a great many things from that time to this, and my physical strength is good. I can do any sort of work with expedition. I can walk fast—even run with speed. But I do not work any this year. Last year I mowed many days, and loaded and stacked hay, after the stoutest pitcher in all this village. The reason of my working so was this, my son, Ambrose, has sold a great part of his land here, and bought in the State of Michigan, and he and his boys worked there last summer, and I carried on the old farm in Arcade. Ambrose moved his family to the town of Millford in Oakland County, and State of Michigan, about the first of May this year. I myself went up with the family. We made a quick and prosperous voyage. We started from Arcade on Monday morning, April 29, and arrived at our farm in Millford on Friday the same week, a distance of 400 miles in five days. We got there on Friday at 2 o'clock P. M. We went up the Lake Erie in a steam boat which runs ten miles an hour. The spring comes on in Michigan much earlier than it does in Vermont, or even Western New York. Fruit trees were in full bloom at the first of May in Michigan. And the best wheat 12 inches high, common lettuce and green onions were served up for sause, cabbage plants fit to transplant, and all other things in the same state of forwardness.

I stayed in Michigan till 1 of June. June 3 I started for home and arrived in Arcade in the short space of 5 days and a half—400 miles. I left my family all well in Michigan, and those that remained in Arcade were all well on my return. My son, Ambrose, has 4 sons and 2 daughters, namely: Andrew Moor, 2; Ambrose Curtis, 3; James Christopher, 4; William Silvester. Females: Urania, 1; Elisabeth, 2, called Betty. Mary, my son's wife, has had three children more: one still born; the other two died at about 2 year old—the one a boy was next after James, and was named William. William now living was called after him to bear up his name; the other, a daughter, was called Mary after her mother. Mary was their youngest child and died about 4 years ago.

The two eldest sons, Andrew and Ambrose, did not go to Michigan with the family. Andrew is engaged in the boating business on the Genesee River and has $20.00 per month. Ambrose works on the old farm in Arcade. Since I moved to the State of New York my worldly property has increased to a much greater amount than it was when I lived in Vermont. At one time my son and I held deeds of 252 acres of land in this village—all paid for long ago. But my son has sold the greater part of his land in Arcade, and bought in the State of Michigan. The old farm with a good house, barn and orchard, still remain unsold.

Now hear me, sir. I once vainly thought that happiness might be found in this world. Yet I did not possess it, though I greatly desired it. But it was always away yonder out of sight. I could not come at it; sometimes indeed it would seem near at hand, very bright and dazzling, but suddenly it would skip away like a Jack o'lantern which none could ever catch but many have been ruined by following it, being led into a dark swamp, and got bewildered and so perished.

I am the only one remaining in this world of all the family of the old race of 7 sons and 3 daughters of my honored father, William Orvis, who departed this life June 13, 1774.

All the others one after another are gone to their long home and none of them lived to my present age excepting my mother. She lived to about 90 years. Whether I shall hold out to 90 years is known only to that GOD in whose hand my breath is and whose are all my ways. But this we all know, that our time in this world is short at the most. It remaineth therefore that we give all diligence to prepare for death, our great and last change, that when we are called out of this world we may be watching and waiting for the coming of our Lord, and Savior Jesus Christ, that at his coming he may find us so doing.

My dear friend, please to write to me that I may know where you are and how you do. My love to you and all yours. Give my compliments to all inquiring friends. I still remain, Dear Sir, your affectionate friend,

AMBROSE ORVIS.

Mr. Josephus Orvis.

N. B.: I have said nothing in the foregoing about religion. We have a Congregational Church here consisting of about 130 members and a local preacher, Mr. Huntington Lyman, and a good Church House with a bell, and two soves (stoves), the whole cost about $3,000. We have a Sunday School, Bible Class and monthly concert. We have also a Temperance Society numbering about 600. Yet notwithstanding our form, there is a sad deficiency of that charity which suffereth long and is kind, that envieth not, etc.

MISCELLANEOUS NOTES

Des Moines, Ia., May 17, 1912.

Mr. F. W. Orvis,

Dear Relative:—Your book of the Orvis race gave me information that led me to find the name of Waitstill Orvis. My grandfather was a commissioned officer in Vermont in 1778, three years before it was a State, and in the Revolutionary War. His name I found recorded as such in the records in this city at the State Capitol Building. From this I completed my long sought record, and I have become a member of the Sons of the Revolution, and my daughter, Mrs. Hoffman, has joined the National Society of Daughters of the Revolution. This places the record for others that desire to join these societies. Advise me if I can help them.

Respectfully yours,

J. M. ORVIS.

P. S. I suppose you received my photo.

(Letter from R. S. Orvis to His Uncle and Aunt, Jesse and Lydia)

(This letter was loaned to me by Mrs. Orey E. Crippen, a daughter of Geo. Eleazer Orvis, oldest son of Eleazer Orvis and Celestia Rich.—F. W. O.)

Hastings, March 26, 1852.

Dear Uncle:—I write to inform you of the death of my father and also of my brother Samuel. Samuel died on the 12th day of October last: his death was caused by wounds received 2 days before by slipping and falling so as to be caught in a threshing machine that he was tending. He had been subject for some years to turns of dizziness in the head. This is what caused him to fall. His left arm was demolished and left leg terribly torn to pieces. Both limbs were amputated that day, and, there being no visible marks of injury on the body besides the leg and arm mentioned before, hopes of recovery were entertained at first. Owing, however, to the breaking of blood vessels, mortification ensued, and he died 2 days afterwards. He bore his affliction with great patience, had his reason to the last and died with a cheerful hope in the resurrection.

Father bore the death of Samuel as well as anyone could expect. On the 27th of October, as father was in the sitting room while his bed was making, he fell on the smooth floor and broke his hip bone. The surgeon said that it could not be set. He lived a week from the time the injury was received. He had his reason till within less than an hour of his death. He talked till within 5 or 6 hours of his death, when his lips became parched, but his look and his squeeze of his hand told that he knew his acquaintances and what they said to him. During his last illness he often expressed his willingness to die.

Alvah died about 6 years before father and Samuel. Some months before his death Alvah was hooked by an ox, receiving a wound in the spine. This wound finally terminated his life. So you see the male members of our family have all gone but myself, and none of them, properly speaking, have died a natural death. Mother is about as well as usual for persons of her age (85 years). Our family at Prattsburg are in usual health. My wife's health about as common. Two of sister Rosina's daughters, married and resident here in Hastings with their families, are all well. I have risen very lately from a sick bed that had confined me to the house for 9 days, but I am beginning now to do some work again.

My sister Clarissa was married in December last, to Aaron Whitehead, who was formerly married to Ruth Turner, Aunt Eunice's daughter. They live on the old farm with mother. I have long wanted to hear from you and also to write to you but had not till lately the means of ascertaining where to direct a letter. In January last my sister Clarissa and myself took a journey to the Susquehanna country to where Aunt Roxanna with her posterity and our sister Caroline live. We found them tolerably well. Roger Orvis, Aunt Roxanna's husband, died 4 years ago the 6th of last July, as you had probably learned before. Aunt Roxanna is nearly blind. She retains the faculties of her mind in an uncommon degree. They live mostly at Clifford, in the S. E. of Susquehanna County, and some of them are in Luzerne County. If Uncle Jesse and Aunt Lydia are living, they are the only ones left of the 14 of Grandfather Orvis' children. My mother and Aunt Roxanna are all who are left of 13 of Grandfather Seward's children. I hope you will write to me immediately on receiving this letter. I am anxious to know whether this letter reaches you or not. I am anxious to get a list of the 14 children of Grandfather Orvis, with the day and year on which each was born, and also the day and year on which each died. If they are put down in the form of a table it will make the least writing and will be less liable to omissions. I want to make out a family chart, and will send you a copy when made if you desire. Uncle Jesse's memory is good and I believe that Aunt Lydia's is. The following is the form I should like to get the names, etc.:

Names	Year, month and date of birth	Time of death
Reuben
Roger
David
Eleazer
Hannah	1744, Apr. 15	1813, Apr. 9
Phebe
Samuel	1755, Mar. 6	1851, Nov. 3

You see, I have given a specimen of a table containing the name, time of birth, also the time of death of each. The 7 older ones I remember hearing grandmother tell about the ages of, but the precise time of the birth of any I do not know except father's. The rest are therefore left blank; but they were born in the order in which they are set down. Of the younger 7 I am not in every case quite certain of the order of their birth.—Pray send me a list, and as accurate as your memory can make it. Let us not fail of writing each other every year. Give me the Post Office where you generally take your letters, tell us where the nearest railroad station is to your place also. Direct your letters to the Central Square Post Office, Oswego Co., N. Y. Give my love to all the younger branches of the family.

Your affectionate nephew,

To Jesse Orvis and Lydia Rose. R. S. ORVIS.

Missoula, Montana, June 26, 1912.

Mr. Francis W. Orvis,
New York City.

Dear Sir:—Your kind favor of ——16 at hand, also the Orvis book for which I desire to express to you my sincere thanks. The John M. Orvis of Des Moines I have met some 16 years ago—the only time—although I knew very well nearly all of his brothers and sisters. They were a large family, also his father and mother, Simeon V. and Direxy Campbell. My daughter, Ethel L. Reinhard was born at Salem, Wis., Mar. 4, 1888. My daughter, Helen J., was born at Trevor, Wis., April 23, 1894. My son, John Mills, was born at Missoula, Mont., April 24, 1899. Ethel L. was married to J. G. Reinhard, of Missoula, Mont., Mar. 4, 1911—no children.

My grandfather—son of Waitstill and Elizabeth was named John Mills. I never knew that he had lived in New York. Was born in Vermont, lived there a great many years; then moved to Cleveland, Ohio, my father and the entire family coming with him. While in Cleveland my father owned and ran a blacksmith shop near the Ohio canal. In 1844, they all came to Salem, Kenosha Co., Wis., and settled on a farm owned by Capt. John J. Tuttle. My father and grandfather lived in that vicinity until their deaths, except for a period of 4 years from 1850 to 1854, which my father spent in California, crossing the plains amid great hardships going, but returning via boat and crossing the Isthmus of Panama (by land of course), then by boat to New York City, etc.

Do you know how our family obtained the name, Mills?

Yours very truly,

J. M. ORVIS.

From data indicated in "Outlines of the Orvis Family" issued in 1911, J. M. Orvis made application for membership in the Sons of the American Revolution with the following result:

Born Brattleboro, Vt., Dec. 9, 1835. Admitted Dec. 9, 1911.

Simeon V. Orvis ..... Direxy C. Campbell
Waitstill Orvis ..... Elizabeth Church

Waitstill or Weightstill Orvis was commissioned by the Committee of Safety of Vermont, August 18, 1778, as ensign in the Vermont troops and served in such office for Cumberland County in the Southern Regiment.

References: Vermont Revolutionary Rolls, pages 823-826.

There is very little doubt that every Orvis is entitled to membership in either the Sons or Daughters of the American Revolution or any similar body.

MISCELLANEOUS NOTES

(Letter from James Christopher Orvis to Francis Wayland Orvis)

Maywood, Cook Co., Ill., March 18, 1897.

Mr. Francis W. Orvis,
18-20 Rose Street, New York.

My oldest brother's wife, Caroline, has just sent me some papers from you in regard to the Orvis Family. I will try and give a little information and perhaps it may lead to more. I see we were born the same year,* only my birthday is May 21st, and yours July 12th. I will give a little sketch of my forefathers. First, my grandfather, Ambrose Orvis, was born in Northfield, Mass., January 7, 1758. He was a Revolutionary soldier. My father, same name, only Jr., was in War of 1812. I will give later on the names of his folks, as far as I can. If I could see you I could tell you so much easier than I can write. I can scarcely see the lines so you must excuse mistakes. I had a cataract taken off both of my eyes some three years ago and for the last three weeks my glasses seem to go back on me, but will do the best I can.

My grandfather had three children: Sally, Ambrose and Urania. My father went away from home when about 17 years old—shipt on a whaling trip and was gone about nine years; went some 18,000 miles around the world. They never heard from him; supposed him dead. He had written but never heard from home. He grew up a tall man, 6 feet and three inches in his stockings. When he got home there was rejoicing in that family like the prodigal son. I don't know whether they had the fatted calf or not. I can think of lots I have heard him tell of his hardships. He was impressed three different times on board of an English man-of-war. He never liked the Johnnies much. He was once taken prisoner by the Spanish; had him in prison in Peru about ten months. He had his passports. They tried hard to steal them from him. I could tell lots about what I have heard him tell. He never liked the Spanish much better than the English. My grandfather was a musician in Revolution. I now have the snare drum he then carried. He played it at both Inaugurals of Washington in N. Y. He knew General Putnam and Ethan Allen. My grandfather was a splendid song singer. He said he had sung in Washington's camp many times when they were in Winter quarters; has seen Washington dance. This snare drum I played when William Henry Harrison—"Old Tippecanoe and Tyler too"—was elected. My oldest brother played the fife and first voted for him. I am all that is left of our family. I have played the drum at every Presidential election and 4th of July since and intend to as long as I live. I have a violin I've had about 60 years. I play it and the drum occasionally, and think of old times. I had a sketch printed of the drum and myself in the Chicago Times Herald. I have given them all away or I would send you one. My grandfather died Aug. 30, 1840. Father died August 29, 1850; my mother, March 10, 1856; my oldest brother (Andrew M. Orvis), died Dec. 21, 1895; my youngest, William S., May 18, 1892; my next older than me, Ambrose C., was killed by the cars in Milford, Mich., July 21, 1894. He was a banker there. My oldest and youngest brothers went to California in the first gold excitement. My oldest brother was the greatest man for fun and story telling I ever saw; always ready for anything. He played the violin and fife. My son has his fife. We played them for McKinley Campaign. My oldest brother's family were all musicians. My son is not behind. He never uses tobacco or intoxicants. I never used tobacco, or but one of my brothers, nor my grandfather. I have been two days writing these lines on account of my eyes and will have to quit. Some other time may be better to write more. Would like to hear from you any time. I never knew of an Orvis I would not like to see or hear from. Oliver I speak of was my father's cousin. He was at our house in Michigan since I was married. He looks like my grandfather enough to be a brother. He played the drum and on my violin. I know a great many Orvises—a girl in Decatur, Indiana, was here last year. She has an uncle in Chicago and another in Ohio. Mrs. Bettis of Fond-du-Lac, Wis., told of one Isaac Orvis, who was at their house a number of years ago looking up the Orvis family. I must close. My son is with the Bakers National Bank of Chicago—has been there several years. This morning my eyes feel better. Please write to me.

Yours truly,

Maywood, Ill. JAMES C. ORVIS,

P. S.—My birthplace was China, Genessee Co., N. Y. State. It's been divided since we moved away. It is now called Wyoming Co. Batavia was then our county seat.

(On a slip in same letter)

I have been in the milling business quite a little. This is the last flouring mill.

* The old gentleman was in error, as my birthday is Oct. 12, 1855—about 40 years later than his.—F. W. O.

MISCELLANEOUS NOTES

All the other owners are dead and it is now turned into a knitting factory. I used to make 1,400 bbls. of flour per week.

(On another sheet)

My grandfather's father's name was William Orvis. His father's name was Samuel Orvis of Simsbury, Conn. William Orvis was born 1709 at Simsbury, Conn. He had three wives: Anna (1), Martha (2), Elizabeth (3), Severance, who was living when he died. His children were 10, as follows:

Mercy,
Samuel was a soldier in French and Indian War, 1756-1758,
William,
Rachel,
Anna,
Charles,
Oliver,
Gershom,
Waitstill was an ensign in Revolution. (I have seen him).

Ambrose, my grandfather (see History of Northfield, Mass.), Temple & Sheldon. Vermont History & Gazeteer, Vol. 5. History of Eastern Vermont, page 773.

The cane is now in Milwaukee, I think, in possession of Ebenezer Orvis, a brother of George Orvis, who used to live in this city, Chicago. He is West. His only daughter and wife went to California over one year ago. She died last fall and the girl expects to come back this spring. The cane spoken of she has seen. It's a reed, petrified. There was once a manuscript with it, but it is lost. There were two Orvis brothers came to America from England about 1600. This cane was presented to them by the Black Prince (see English History) for bravery in guarding his castle. An English lady was here last year and said she had been in this castle and there she saw the armor they claimed was once worn by the Prince. The Orvises first came from Wales and all started from these brothers and are quite a nation; settled first in Massachusetts, Vermont and Connecticut, but now to be found most everywhere. There is one in Boston, John Orvis, about 81 years, the last of fourteen children. He was at my house. Also another Orvis—Oliver by name. He died in Wisconsin. There are a great many in Wisconsin. Some of the Orvis family live quite old. There was one, I have heard my father tell, lived to be 102 years. George's parents were 84 years old. There was an Orvis, a Mrs. Bettis, in Wisconsin, that celebrated their golden wedding two years ago. My wife and I were married in 1846.

The paper you sent giving a sketch of you, if like you it's Orvis all over. All the Orvises have a sameness, shape of head. All have resemblance.

THE HAWLEY-ORVIS AFFILIATIONS

Benjamin Hawley, of Farmington, Conn., married Lydia Orvis June 20, 1770. When Benjamin died, Lydia married David Smith. Their daughter, Ursula, married Benjamin Hawley, farmer, of Bristol, Conn., May 3, 1807. Did live in Luzerne County, Pa.

Elisha Hawley married Margaret Orvis, daughter of Eleazer and Hannah (North).

Samuel Hawley married Amy Atwater, daughter of Ichabod and Abigail (Orvis) Atwater, at Norfolk, Conn.

Eleazer Hawley had a son named Orvis E. Hawley, born February 16, 1832. He died in Chicago July 31, 1855.

Romulus Hawley named his son, Orvis E. Hawley, born August 14, 1857.

David Orvis married Lydia Hawley. This was the son of Eleazer.

In a letter to the author dated March 8, 1897, Mrs. Caroline (Kibbe) Orvis, widow of Andrew Moore Orvis, said:

"Since my marriage I became acquainted with father Orvis' (Ambrose, Jr.) cousin, Oliver Orvis, a bachelor, and paper maker by trade. He died in Wisconsin, 70 years old or more."

I am unable to place this one. Can any one help me?

MISCELLANEOUS NOTES

MISCELLANEOUS NAMES, DATES AND QUESTIONS PICKED UP HERE AND THERE

In the Emerson Family Record, Uriel Herbert Orvis is given instead of Uriel Hawley as we have it. Born Windsor, Vt., October 25, 1784. Died at Massena, N. Y., June 24, 1854.

There is an Orvisburg, Pear River County, Mississippi; Orvilla, Wilkinson County, Mississippi; Orville, Henry County, Kentucky; Orviston, Pennsylvania. This last is named after Judge Ellis L. Orvis, of Bellefonte, Centre County, Pennsylvania.

There is an Orvista Apartment House at 35 West 81st Street, New York City. Col. Charles Orvis, formerly of 60 Broadway, was interested in its erection.

Orvis Street and East Orvis Street in Massena, N. Y., named in honor of Col. Urel H. Orvis, prominent in that town during his life time.

There was an "Orvis House" hotel in Dixon, Ohio.

There was an Orvis House in Churchs Ferry, North Dakota, kept by H. D. Orvis as late as 1897. He was a son of Isaac Orvis and Gulielma (Deane).

Orvis Hall, Des Moines, Iowa, owned by John Mills Orvis.

On August 21, 1871, two gentlemen came to the Security Bank from Canada, inquiring of J. U. Orvis, who Abraham Orvis was as they wished to pay to him or his decendants $17,000. Query: Who was the lucky chap?

Lorin Orvis married Lillis Brown. Their first son was Abram. He was born July 19, 1808, and married Deborah Keese. Possibly this was the man.—F. W. O.

"Frederick Orvis lived at Waddington, St. Lawrence County, N. Y., and his son, David A. was a merchant there for several years after. There was a W. B. Orvis, of the firm of Williams & Orvis, in Boston and about 1850 he called upon me at my store in New York, and talked about the King James Cane." From Franklin H. Orvis Record.

It is said that "Oerfis" is the Welsh equivalent for Orvis and that it means "The Cold Month."

Rummaging through old legal papers in the Court House at Newfane, county seat of Windham County, Vermont, we ran across these items. Very likely there were more, but our time was short.—F. W. O. and E. L. O.

Gershom Orvis, of Paris, Herkimer County, New York, summoned Joseph Tucker, of Halifax, Vt., March 1, 1800.

Judgment issued against Jonathan Paterson and Waitstill Orvis at Brattleboro, Vt., March 21, 1801; also December 17, 1800.

In Brattleboro, Vt., Justice's Court, James Capen sued John M. Orvis May 10, 1828.

In same court April 5, 1831, John M. Orvis sued Daniel Fisher.

In same court April 5, 1831, John M. Orvis sued Harvey Carpenter.

In same court December 6, 1811, Seth Herrick sued William Orvis at Halifax, Windham County, Vt., November 19, 1800.

Gershom Orvis sued Benj. Olds.

Page 222, Vol. 3, record proceedings, before Lemuel Whitney, Justice of the Peace for Windham County (Brattleboro), Vt., shows entry of Judgment on May 29, 1818, in John M. Orvis vs. Wm. Brown.

Same records show entry of judgment August 28, 1818, in John M. Orvis vs. Hezekiah Salisbury, Jr.

Same record, August 28, 1818, John M. Orvis vs. Joseph Willis.

Same record, August 28, 1818, John M. Orvis vs. Nathaniel Haynes.

The above were proceedings in Justice's Court in Brattleboro.

In records of Town Clerk of Newfane, Windham County, Vt., there is recorded a transfer of property from Josephus Orvis to Edward Adams on February 2, 1847, and also a transfer to same transferee by Hannah Orvis.

Same records show a transfer from Daniel Jones on February 18, 1846, to Josephus Orvis, of Marlboro, Vt.

Same records show transfer of land January 19, 1847, to Josephus Orvis, of Newfane, Vt.

MISCELLANEOUS NOTES

There is a very good write-up of the Orvis Family in "Genealogical and Family History of Vermont," by the Lewis Publishing Company, New York, 1903.

Some think there is an estate in Wales awaiting us.

What David Orvis was buried at Norfolk, Conn., March, 1806?

Heads of families mentioned in the first census of the United States:

Connecticut	Vermont
Zadock, Farmington	Oliver, Hinsdale, Vt.
Ruben, Litchfield	Waitstill, Hinsdale, Vt.
Eleazer, Litchfield	Ambrose, Hinsdale, Vt.
David, Litchfield	Gershom, Halifax, Vt.
Roger, Litchfield	David, Windsor, Vt.
	Roger, New Haven, Vt.

I believe that David and Roger were taken by the census man twice; once in each state, for I do not find two Rogers nor two Davids that could have been the heads of families, but I do know that there was much migration about that time, and the David that was in Litchfield did marry Lydia Hawley and by her had seven children, one of whom was Uriel Hawley Orvis. Francis Brewer Orvis says that his grandfather was Uriel Hawley Orvis and he came from Windsor, Vt., and settled in upper New York State.

UNIDENTIFIED FINDINGS

The following list of births was copied from the records at the New York Public Library by the writer on August 23, 1920, and he does not know where to place them. Some of the dates are contemporaneous with some of those of the children of William, son of Samuel (2), whose third wife was Elizabeth Severance, but neither the names nor dates are exactly the same. No antecedents have been found for this William, if other than the one that was thrice married, one of whose wives was Anna. It leads to the supposition that there was another branch of the family of which the writer has no record.

Children of William and Ann Orvis:
Mary, born November 12, 1735.
Samuel, born September 22, 1734.
Josiah, born February 26, 1736.
Hannah, born February 4, 1738.
Sampson, born December 10, 1740.
Abagail, born June 12, 1743.
Eunice, born March 19, 1745.
Solomon, born (—?—) 27, 1747.
Prentice, born January 27, 1750.
Jonathan, born December 27, 1751.
Hannah, born October 24, 1754.
Susannah, born June 2, 1757.
In a list of marriages is also found the following:
"Ebenezer Dickinson and Mary Orvis married June 10, 1773."

Is this the Mary spoken of in the above list? It might have been; the dates permit, but we do not know.

There was a Mary who died September, 1778. Also a Susanna who died September, 1781.

A Sarah died October, 1778.

(These three according to Church Records of Norfolk, Conn.)

ORVIS AS A CHRISTIAN NAME

Robert Orvis Young, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Orvis C. Ring, Nevada.
Orvis D. Edgerton, Northfield, Vt.
C. Orvis Brown, Rochester, N. Y.
Samuel Orvis Church, Orange, N. J.
Orvis F. Jordan, Evanston, Ill., says in a letter to Edwin W. Orvis, of New York: "The story of my first name is this: My father was an enthusiastic checker player. He often played by mail with great success. At the time I was born, 1877, a Mr. Orvis was the champion of the United States or perhaps of the world. My father christened me Orvis in honor of this man. The result is that I am a most indifferent checker player."

ERRATUM

At the bottom of page 22 (Second Generation) there appears "The Children of Martha (Orvis) and John Root (By Second Marriage)." This item is in an improper location and should have been placed on page 24 (Third Generation), just under "The Children of Martha (Orvis) and Nathaniel Hunn," being the second marriage of Martha (Orvis) (Hunn) Root.

SUPPLEMENT TO THE HISTORY OF THE ORVIS FAMILY IN AMERICA

In the following supplementary pages will be found corrections of the more obvious errors discovered after issuance in its completed form of the History of the Orvis Family in America, together with certain additional facts gleaned from data contributed too late for inclusion in the main volume. Probably the most important reason for issuing a supplement, however, was to provide, as nearly integrally with the "History" as possible, a roster or list of the names of persons other than Orvises who had united with the family by marriage, or who for any other reason had been mentioned in the course of the "History." Many such had experienced difficulty in finding their names readily in the book. Their desire and mine for a readier reference list have led to my going carefully through the volume and setting down every surname other than Orvis, in alphabetical order, with the pages where such names appear. The names occurring in the new reading matter included in this supplement are shown in a separate list following the main index, and Roman numerals corresponding with the respective pages in the supplement are shown after these names.

As for errata, aside from mistakes of typography, it should be understood that not a few of these developed through no conscious fault of the author, who essayed, for the most part, only to tell the story as it was told to him. Notwithstanding this, it is a pleasure, while rectifying the mistakes of my own commission, to include the newly-supplied material lacking from previously-submitted data.

The preparation of the pages that follow completed, I lay down a worn and flagging pen with confessed relief. At no stage can such a chronicle be called finished. Although the separate families of Orvis lineage in the present generation are, it must be admitted, smaller in number than were those of their progenitors a century ago, children of Orvis blood are being born steadily, and it were a hopeless task to essay to keep abreast of all such additions to the family record.

The volume to which I now write "Finis" will, for a time at least, enable these newcomers to orient themselves on the family map. Who knows but that, after sufficient time has elapsed to make the present volume inadequate for such purposes, an improved work will be evolved, carrying the annals far beyond the scope of this History? It is pleasant to desist from my present efforts contemplating hopefully the aid they may be to such a future recorder.

FRANCIS W. ORVIS.

Counting every printed line from the top:

Page 15, Line 30 should read: "He was presented with a cane in 1676 by direction of King James II."

Page 16, next to last line, read "cane" for "came."

Page 19, after Line 26 add this paragraph:

"Stornmonth says: 'Goodman' or 'Goodwife' applied to the Master or Mistress of the home implies some degree of respect. See, also, Matt. XXIV:43."

Following the latter note on same page add this paragraph:

"Ambrose lived in Cobleskill, Schoharie County, N. Y., from about 1779 to 1813, according to deeds now in possession of Allan C. Orvis, Milford, Mich. He must have removed to his later home at China, N. Y., after 1813, for we find him there in 1839. See his letter on page 185."

Page 34: The following joint receipt of the sons of William in relation to William's will would have been placed at the bottom of that page if it had been in the author's possession at the time the "History" was published. It was sent in afterward by Allan C. Orvis, of Milford, Mich.:

We, the Subscribers, Do hereby Acknowledge That we have Severally Received of our Brothers Oliver Orvis and Ambrose Orvis in full to our Contents and Satisfaction for and every part of our proportion to the Estate both Real & Personall of our Hon'rd Father William Orvis, late of Hinsdale Decd, and We Do hereby for our Selves our heirs Executor and Administrators Remise Release and for ever Quit Claim to them the said Oliver and Ambrose Orvis all our Right Title Interest Challenge and Demand in and to all and every part and Parcels of said Estate both Real and personal which now or ever did or might heretofore Justly belong to us or Either of us by virtue of our being the Natural heirs and lawfull Decendants of our said Father William Orvis Decd or by and Otherways whatsoever, in Witness whereof We have hereunto Set our hands and Seals this Thirteenth Day of July in the Fourteenth Year of his Majesty's Reign Anno Domini 1774.

(Signed) SAMUEL ORVIS (Seal)
WILLIAM ORVIS (Seal)
CHARLES ORVIS (Seal)
GERSHOM ORVIS (Seal)
WAITSTILL ORVIS (Seal)

Signed, Sealed & Delivered in presence of
SETH FIELDS
A. HOTTON

Page 37, after Line 23 the following paragraph should be inserted, as the author has learned that Marianne Roxanna (Seward) and Roger Orvis had two children—Marianne Roxanna and Algatha.

"ALGATHA—Born 1791. Died 1860. Married the Rev. Charles Miller.
Had a son, William, who was also a minister, having been graduated from Madison Theological University. He was also the author of a grammar."

Page 37, Line 34 should read: "Richard and Hannah (Holt) Whitney, of Brookline, Vt."

Page 38, Line 32: The middle name of Francis Orvis was Marion, according to information received since publication.

WILLIAM ANDREW BACON[5]—Born July 21, 1809.

For Line 40 read:

JULIA ANNA BACON[5]—Born October 17, 1811.

Lines 20 and 21 indicate that the Equinox House passed out of Orvis control in 1921. This was correct, at the time it was written, but the property reverted and Mrs. George A. Orvis is still the principal owner and in full control.

Page 41, immediately following Line 35, insert a family heading reading:

Children of Gershom Orvis and Asenath (Parmenter)

Male Line: George[6]—Samuel[1]—Samuel[2]—William[3]—Gershom[4]

Martha and all the children following in that section were the children of Gershom and Asenath, and not the children of Ambrose and Rebecca.

For the same reason the same family heading should be placed at the top of page 42 instead of the one now there.

Page 49, in Line 5, read "showed" for "shown." In Line 11, add after Nathan C. McCloskey, "born January 20, 1835."

Page 54, Line 27, see correction of Lines 20 and 21 on page 39.

Page 56, in Line 3 read: "Francis Marion Orvis" for "Francis Orvis." Line 17: Rhoda was born in Andrew County, Mo. Line 18: After Jonathan Joslyn, add "Had a daughter, Mary E., who married (——?——) Schooley." Line 23: Final sentence should read—"Married (1) Amos Galvin and (2) (——?——) Phelps."

Page 62, in Line 6, read "Peru" for "Peree."

Page 63, in Line 26, read "Priscilla R. (Caruthers)" instead of Priscilla (Carothers). Line 27, after June 17, 1829, read: "Died January 9, 1918, at Milford, Mich.," in place of what now appears.

Page 65, Lines 15 and 16: Stella Viola (Orvis) Davis, of Des Moines, Iowa, has always contended that "Direxy" should be spelled "Derexcy" and says that is the way it is in the family record.

Page 66, Line 10 states that Fannie Elizabeth died on January 11. January 9 is the correct date. Probably January 11 was the date of the funeral.

Page 67, Line 21 should read: "February 14, 1906, at Chanute, Kansas. Married at Sycamore, Ill. Following Line 22 this note may be added: "Both are buried at Chanute, Kansas." Line 39 states that Samuel Levi died on the 31st of February. This is manifestly a typographical error, for even an Orvis cannot do the impossible. The correct date is February 21.

Page 69, Line 3: Melvin's middle name was Merton. Line 14: George's middle name was Quincy. Line 25 should read: "Des Moines, Iowa, and is a member of Abagail Adams Chapter D. A. R. of that city."

Page 70, Line 17 should read: Children—Mary, married Emory Clifford; Anna, married Charles Roberts. Line 18: "Eliza, married Henry Covell, and they lived in Chelsea, Iowa. He died October 29, 1906. Buried in Chelsea Cemetery.

Page 79: After Line 11 a note might have stated that Emma Gertrude (Heacock) was a birthright member of the Religious Society of Friends. She is a member of the New York Yearly Meeting of Friends.

Page 83, Line 3: Lois A. (Worden) Church died October 14, 1922, and was buried in Kennewick, Wash. (This was after the "History" was published). Line 22 should read: Lived at Des Moines, Iowa, and is a member of Beacon Hill Chapter, D. A. R. of that city.

Page 84, Line 11: Rose Levina Orvis died December 17, 1922. Buried in English Prairie (Ill.) Cemetery. This was since the "History" was published. Line 39 should read: "and Hettie (Cowles) Harrison." Line 40 should read: "They live at Alamosa, Colo. He is a dentist and a member of S. A. R. in Denver.

Page 85, Line 5, should have stated that Franklin Berchard Davis is a member of S. A. R. in Des Moines, Iowa. Following Line 8 it should have been stated that Herbert Homer Davis is a member of S. A. R. in Seattle, Wash. Line 26, last word, read "Mary" for "May."

Page 94, after Line 5 (See Page 6 of Supplement).

Page 102, Line 32: Word has been sent in by a member of the family that there was no child by the name of "Lillis" in the family, and that there were only four daughters.

Page 106, Line 7: It is assumed that Franklin Keese Orvis was the proprietor of the Nachasa House in Dixon, Ill., in 1891. His widow, Susan Appleton (Swift), was living in February, 1923, in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Page 107, Line 6 should end with: "Kate (Williams)," not "(William)." Lines 10 and 11 should read: "(Hall), who was born August 26, 1862, at Shell Rock, Iowa, daughter of Hiram and Catherine (Groff) Hall."

Page 108, Line 29 gives Mrs. Arthur W. Orvis's father's name as David when it should be Daniel as in the record proper, just above.

Page 109, Line 9 might have shown the present address of Katherine La Rine McCloskey, which is Fordham Hospital, 183rd Street and Third Avenue, New York City, where she is employed.

Page 111, Line 2, should have been: "Children of Charles Waitstill Orvis and Bethia (Selleck) continued," the same as appears on pages 110 and 112.

Page 112, Lines 30, 31 and 32 should read:

MARY OSGOOD—Married Emory Clifford.

ANNA OSGOOD—Married Charles Roberts.

ELIZA OSGOOD—Married Henry Covell. Lived at Chelsea, Iowa. He died October 29, 1906. Buried in Chelsea Cemetery.

Page 113, Line 8 should end with this statement: "Died September 23, 1911."

Page 115, Lines 8 and 9 should read as follows:

EDITH[1]—Born December 17, 1871. Married (1) Edwin Winn, September 1, 1890; he died January, 1908. She married (2) Hugh McCartney in 1920. They live at Waterloo, Iowa.

Line 14: Alma Esther married Roy Pease—not Ray Pease.

Page 120, beginning with Line 27 substitute following for paragraph now appearing:

ANN ROSETTE ADAMS—Born October 6, 1848, at South Newfane, Vt. Married July 6, 1872, Marvin Selwyn Chase at Chicago, Ill., who was born February 4, 1844, at Cayuta, Chemung (now Schuyler) County, N. Y., son of Dr. Zalmon Fowler and Hannah (White) Chase.

Page 125, Line 5: Change date to February 12, 1891. Line 10: Change date to April 1, 1918. Line 12: Change date to April 1, 1918. Line 13: Change date to May 1, 1918. Line 15: Change date to September-October, 1918.

Page 127, continuing Line 27 it should be added that John Orvis Keller and Mary Lyons (Gans) Keller have another son, Henry Keller, born October 5, 1922, at Bellefonte, Pa. It may also be added that J. O. Keller served in the World War as Second Lieutenant of Ordnance, being located most of the war period at Camp Hancock, Ga.

Following Line 33 add: "Was First Lieutenant of Company 'D', 111th Infantry, 28th Division, and was severely wounded in the Chateau-Thierry Drive near Fimette. He is at present head of the Department of Agricultural Economics at Rutgers College, New Jersey."

After Line 35 add: "Served in the Cavalry of the 28th Division at Camp Hancock, Ga., but was later transferred to the Ordnance Department at Camp Wadsworth, South Carolina. At present is teaching in the High School at Bellefonte, Pa.

Pages 130, 131, 132 and 133: In the family heading at top of each page the name "Emerton" is spelled with two "m's." There should be only one "m." It is regretted that the same error occurs in the title and Male Line under portrait of Arthur Emerton Orvis on page 131.

Page 134, Line 19 should read:

Children of Edward Church Orvis and Mary (Woods)

Line 23, add: Edna May obtained her degree of B.A. at Wellesley in 1905 and M.A. at Columbia in 1908. Line 24, add: Attended Simmons in 1905 and University of Vermont in 1912.

Page 135, Line 37, giving the record of Minnie A. Grimes, should be as follows:

MINNIE ABBIE GRIMES—Born March 19, 1890. Married July 8, 1913, George John Zimmer, who was born December 30, 1885, at Hanover, Germany.

Digitized by Google

Their children were: A son, born February 15, 1915. Died at birth. Alice Lenore, born January 21, 1917, and Miriam Aileen, born February 9, 1921. All live at Rapid City, S. D., which is also the address of Mrs. Adam Grimes.

Page 139, in Line 10 the name should be Walter Clarence Davis—not David. In Line 15 the name should be: Franklin Berchard Davis—not Birchard.

Page 140, Line 14: In the record of Mary Ellen it states that she died May 31, 1915, at Dubuque, Iowa, and in the note just below it is stated that she was buried at Juniata, Nebraska. This is an error. It was her mother who died on that date, see page 89, Line 20. Mary Ellen Haines was living at 1102 Huff Street, Lincoln, Neb., as late as January 24, 1923.

Page 145, Line 26 should read: "Alznia Brown married Edgar M. Javitz, of Coldstream, Ontario. Three children: Mary Camilla, Flora Lorena and Charles Harold.

Page 146, Line 8: "Bluefield" should be "Blissfield." Line 9, read: "Chantler" for "Chautler." In Lines 10 and 12 read: "Spalding" for "Spaulding." Line 14: Harry C. Orvis is a doctor of dental surgery—not a physician.

Page 150, Line 3 should read:

Children of Francis Brewer Orvis and Ella Louise (Renton)

Line 15: For "1885" read "1895."

Page 151, before Line 27 there should have appeared:

CHARLES AMBROSE[5]—Born March 3, 1889. Died March 7, 1890.

Line 30: For "Berry" read "Perry."

Page 159, Line 28: For "Selwin," read "Selwyn."

Page 161, Line 27, should read:

ELENOR H.[5]—Born April 3, 1878, at Freeport, Ill. Married 1898 in New York City, Fred Gadsden. Two children—Hazel and Fred, Jr.

Page 162, Lines 31 and 32: The years should be 1902 and 1906 respectively.

Page 165, Line 6: Mary Ellen Haines was buried at Lincoln, Nebraska. Line 31: Carl Watters Orvis, born January 13, 1914, not January 15. Line 32: Marjorie Lorraine Orvis, born November 23, 1916, not November 25. Line 34: Add Roger Clarkson —Born December 25, 1922.

Page 166, after Line 10, there should have appeared all of the children of Eleazer H. Orvis, whereas the book shows only one son, William Eleazer. The additional record should be:

Page 167, Line 20: Add Lois Ellen—Born April 9. 1923, at Brookings, S. D. C. F. and Ella now live at Excelsior, Minn.

EDGAR[5]—Born and died April 10, 1876.
EDITH EMELINE[5]—Born March 8, 1877.
ERNEST BRISTOL[5]—Born March 5, 1879.
GRACE ABBIE[5]—Born Oct. 10, 1882.
KATIE ETHELYN[5]—Born Dec. 16, 1884.
FRANK[5]—Born and died Jan. 27, 1887.
GULIELMA[5]—Born July 28, 1889.
MURIEL FAITH[5]—Born and died May 10, 1899.
ROGER KIETH[5]—Born Nov. 5, 1902.

Page 195, Line 15 should end with "Dixon, Illinois," not "Ohio." F. K. Orvis was the proprietor and the name of the hotel was Nachasa House.

The data as to the Roger Orvis line, appearing on pages 37, 61, 94, 135 and 171 was so meager when the History was published last year and so much as been received since that it is thought wise to print a continuous line in the supplement, and the same follows:
